NORWAY VICINITY

Maurice Grant of New York City is visiting his sisters, Mrs. James C. True of this town and Mrs. George B. Bennett of South Paris.

Miss Christine I. Judkins has given up a position in the office of Dingley & Ross at Auburn to accept a place with the Western Union Telegraph Co., in Lewiston. She and her brother, George Cunningham Judkins, were week end guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Judkins.

Mr. and Mrs. Claudius Needham have returned to their home on Allen Ave., Portland, after spending a few days here.

Indian summer has had its fling through October with mercury hitting the seventies on the 17th and 19th. The nights have been comfortable and the extra bedding used in September has proved excess baggage.

A series of informal public dances is being arranged for the winter at the American Legion Hall, Saturday, Nov. 17 being the opening night. Dances will be held every Saturday night thereafter. The dances are planned as a benefit for the Legion Post and good patronage will provide a fund that can be used acceptably. Shaw's Orchestra will furnish the music during the series.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Mixer have returned to Springfield, Mass., after visiting two weeks with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Horace H. Mixer. Miss Virginia Mixer of Beverly, Mass., and Mr. and Mrs. Roland Mixer of Portland have also been guests for the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Myron Gilman, Mrs. Susie Mrs. Anna P. Gilman and Miss Evelyn Gilman attended the U. S. Marine band concert in Lewiston, Thursday evening.

A meeting of St. Mary's Guild will be held at the home of Mrs. Thomas Huston Monday, October 29, at 7:30 p. m.

Charles Morse has been laid up with fractured ribs, caused by falling on a box at the C. B. Cummings & Sons Co. mill.

Sewall T. Maddocks and wife of Boothbay Harbor, were recent guests at the Beals Tavern and spent a pleasant evening with Howard D. Smith.

Mount Hope Rebekah Lodge held its first meeting with the newly installed officers in the chairs, Friday evening. Among other matters of business, committees were appointed for the coming year as follows: Finance, Mrs. Caroline Fisher, Mrs. Ethelyn Lapham, James E. Everett; Investigating Committee, Mrs. Rose Everett, Mrs. Grace Bennett, William J. Hassall; Visiting Committee, Mrs. Nora Harlow, Mrs. Grace Dunn, Mrs. Maude Brewster, Mrs. Gertrude Libby, Mrs. Ada Cox.

Will Channell of Magog, P. Q., is visiting Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Woodman. More than forty years ago he worked here in the shoe factory and at Rochester, N. H., and Athol, Mass. At one time he was clerk at the Beals House. For some years he has been farming on a large scale. The farm at present is under the charge of his son and Will is working less.

Mrs. Hiram Wiles has returned from Bethel, where she has been caring for her sister, Mrs. Lowe, who has been seriously ill. Mrs. Lowe returned with her. She is steadily convalescing.

Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Curtis and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence H. Seabury of Yarmouth spent Sunday at Skowhegan and visited Rev. and Mrs. O. B. Tracy.

Ralph W. Richardson believes in utilizing the forces near at hand and have them overcome resistance in the easiest way. He wants his garden ploughed, so he takes his pig, made a harness for it, hitched it to a pole, and places it at different points in the garden. Pig tendencies to root were resorted to at once and in due time Ralph will have his garden turned over.

A party of five couples, including Mr. and Mrs. Elmer D. Packard, Mr. and Mrs. Donald J. Andrews, Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Luck, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Heath and Mr. and Mrs. Homer R. Luck enjoyed a baked bean supper, Saturday night, at Camp Cinnamon.

Mrs. George A. Borneman entertained Mrs. Mary Adams, Miss Lelia Watson and Mrs. Mary Cole at a dinner party on the event of Miss Watson's birthday, and at the same time, Mrs. Adams' birthday, who celebrated her 81st birthday.

Mrs. Melvina Pride entertained the Barton Reading Club, Thursday afternoon. The subject of the afternoon was the poet, Whittier.

Mellie and "Gram" Dunham will be busy the next two weeks, with engagements. They go to Sanford this week, Thursday, and play at the Farm Bureau meeting in Norway, Friday. Next week they go to Livermore, Thursday; Dixfield, Friday, and Farmington Falls, Saturday.

Blynne Allen, superintendent of schools for Newcastle, Damariscotta, Bristol and South Bristol, has been visiting here. He is forty, married, and has three children. He is a Norway boy that has made good.

Walter J. Glidden of Belfast was a guest, Sunday, of Roy F. Jordan, on the poultry farm below the village. On Nov. 3 Mr. Glidden sails from New York for Brazil, where he will be general manager of a large shoe factory. Mrs. Glidden, daughter Phyllis and son "Buddy" will remain in Boston during the winter, then go to Brazil. The Gliddens left Norway two years ago for Belfast, where he has since been a foreman in the Hazzard shoe factory.

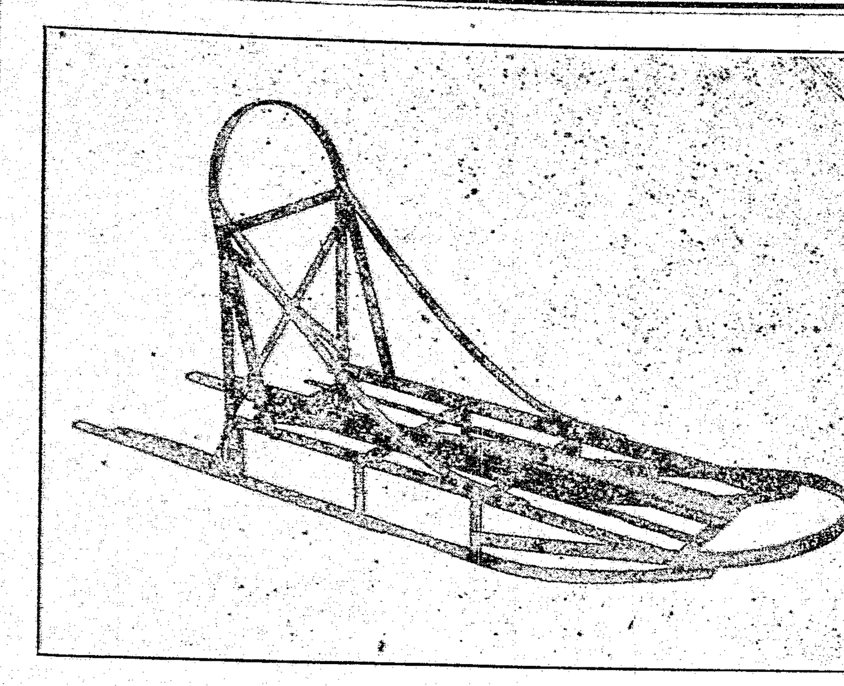

Mr. and Mrs. Robert York have moved to South Paris and are occupying the house they bought just outside the village and beyond Park Street bridge.

The track at the fair grounds has been covered with straw for protection against frost.

Mrs. Nettie Walker celebrated her birthday at New Gloucester, Saturday, while there visiting her daughter, Mrs. Edith Bay. The family served a chicken supper and furnished a birthday cake. Mrs. Walker received several cards and gifts, including a water set, from relatives, and a marine scene done in oils by George H. Bennett.

The scarcity of marketable apples is noticeable at the freight shed where only three cars have been loaded to the present time. The number is far below an average year when twelve or more cars are usually loaded before this date.

Supt. and Mrs. Charles Turner of Ellsworth are visiting with their daughter, Mrs. Elsid Mattor. Mr. and Mrs. Mattor accompanied them on a motor trip through New Hampshire and Vermont, last week, returning Sunday.

DOG SLED FOR BOYS AND GIRLS

Another contribution to the court of King Winter is the Tubbs Dog Sled, manufactured at the W. F. Tubbs Co., in Norway, Me. This is a trail sled carrying the name "Eskimo" and designed for lightness, strength and easy draught. Built of the best ash lumber, the pieces fastened together with screws and lashed with rawhide, not only insures safety, but suggests the atmosphere of the frozen trail with the mushers and sporting chances. A foot brake adds to convenience and safety.

The sled is a combination of the Parrac-Walden Eskimo trail sled into which are incorporated scientific principles of stability after a personal consultation with Arthur Walden, now with the Byrd south polar expedition. Finished in natural wood, the sled is neat and trim. It weighs only thirteen pounds and is just right for a one dog hitch.

In spite of this light construction, the sled will safely carry a load of several hundred pounds without strained joints or "buckling." It is designed not only for amusement, but for staying qualities that means a whole lot in this age of makeshift and cutting corners.

A little more elaborate model than the one in the illustration is being developed. This is the "Hudson Bay Express" and a de luxe product for more strenuous work.

Fireman's Ball and Gift Show

Two Hundred Dancers Enjoyed the Eighth Annual Ball—Gifts Distributed

Rain failed to extinguish the sport at Norway Opera House, Tuesday evening, when the Norway Fire Department held the Eighth Annual Old Fashioned Ball, under the auspices of Firemen's Benefit Relief Association.

Two hundred and fifty dancers entered into the spirit of the occasion to the music of True's Orchestra, nine pieces, of Norway.

The grand march at 8:30 was led by the floor manager, John Lasselle, and his daughter, Mrs. Ethelyn Lapham, followed by the aids and partners, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Luck, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Luck, Mr. and Mrs. George Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Roy, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Billings and Mr. and Mrs. James Harvey.

An order of sixteen dances provided both old and new in equal proportion before intermission, after which waltzes, trots and one-step predominated. The old time schottische had a prominent place on the order.

A large number of dancers were present from surrounding towns, undoubtedly many more would have attended had the rain storm held off a few hours.

All appeared to be having a good time under the general supervision of the following:

Floor Manager—John Lasselle.
Aids—All of the Firemen.
Honorary Aids—Charles W. Bowker, South Paris; Ex-Chief C. H. Blythen, Auburn; Chief Roy Penley, Harrison; Chief Fortin, Lewiston; Chief Mercier, Rumford; Dep. Chief Pratt, Auburn; Fred Proctor, Auburn.

Box office was in charge of C. Clifford Frost and ticket collectors were Will Walker, Seth L. Chipman, Ben Bicknell and Edward Lever.

An innovation was giving away thirty-eight gifts which, with one exception, were contributions from Norway business men. The plan did not materialize until a few days before the ball, so the fact was not broadly advertised. Needless to say, it made a decided hit with the merchants, who responded with worthwhile goods and was appreciated by the patrons. Prizes were awarded by admission numbers drawn at intervals during the evening. There were no strings attached and no advance in regular prices at the box office. Giles Frost, chief of the department, Ronell Bicknell and Arsene Blaquiere were in charge of the distribution from the stage.

TEACHERS AND SCHOOL BOARD AT BRIDGE

Mrs. W. H. Edminster and Mrs. Norman U. Greenlaw entertained at a gathering, Thursday evening, at the Edminster home at the Falls, their guests including the members of the school board and the teachers in the village with their husbands and wives. The rooms were very gaily decorated in the Hallowe'en colors and tables arranged for bridge. During the evening Mr. and Mrs. Guy Rowe, the newlyweds, were presented gifts in silver and linen.

In the party were Mr. and Mrs. Albert A. Towne, Mr. and Mrs. Verdal Sampson, Mr. and Mrs. Donald B. Partridge, Mr. and Mrs. Norman U. Greenlaw, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Edminster, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Rowe, Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. David Klain, Mrs. Leo V. Walton, Miss Gertrude O. Gardner, Miss Gladys Barker, Miss Tessa R. Thibodeau, Miss Mary L. Whittredge, Miss Evelyn Sawyer, Miss Eva Johnson, Miss Mildred Thyng, Miss Daphne Winslow, Miss Ada Reed, Miss Ruth Flanders, Miss Esther Knudsen, Miss Vitella Sweatt.

Mrs. Sampson and Mr. Towne held high score and Miss Johnson and Mr. Brown low score, each received a souvenir. Dainty refreshments were served by the hostesses.

ENTERTAINED AT SHEPARDS' CAMPS

The office force of the Norway Shoe Company enjoyed a supper party, Monday evening, at Shepards' Camps. The table was attractively arranged with flowers, candles and Hallowe'en favors. A delicious supper was served consisting of baked ham and potatoes, pickles, hot rolls, gingerbread and whipped cream, doughnuts, coffee and sweet cider.

Later in the evening games were played and prizes in keeping with the season were awarded the winners.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Foster, Charles Hancock, Mr. and Mrs. Mellen Snell, Mrs. Etta Buck, Miss Clara Shepard, Miss Marguerite Porter, Miss Wilda Cole, Miss Blanche Lafrance, Miss Flora Stevens, Albert Lafrance and H. F. Sands made up the party.

J. E. Hammond, who has been taking George A. Doran's place at the Grand Trunk station at South Paris for ten days, returned Thursday, to his duties at Norway Station.

VISITS NATIVE TOWN AND ASSOCIATES

George S. Pingree of Ashland, Mass., was a recent caller at the Wearies. He is a son of the late Wm. S. Pingree and was brought up in this village. He is now 63. His father made brick in Oxford and sold his brick business to John Ordway forty odd years ago.

Mr. Pingree is a natural mechanic and for years has been employed by the Boston and Albany railroad. At present he is in the signal department at Ashland. He built himself a house in that city. He was four years in its construction. A picture of it was shown the writer.

Mr. Pingree was accompanied by his wife and was on his way to call on Leslie Flint of Northwest Norway, who is a nephew. They have been away from home more than a week. He has a married son and daughter who are living in Hopkinton, Mass. The son is in business for himself, making auto truck bodies.

George stayed out of school for two weeks when a boy. The teacher notified his mother, who took the son to do for skipping school and wanted to know why he did it. He promptly told his trusting mother that he stayed out so as to let the other members of the class catch up with him. This story came out in conversation with Jas. C. True, who was a schoolmate.

ARMY RECRUITING OFFICER VISITS TOWN

Corporal Melvin A. Kelly, Regular Army Recruiting Service, was a visitor in Norway, Friday, advertising for men for the regular army. There are vacancies to be filled at Hawaii, Panama, 8th Corps Area, Texas; West Point Military Academy and Signal School, Fort Monmouth, N. J., and for Army Posts in New England.

For those who prefer service near their home enlistments are open at Fort Williams, Portland, Me. This will allow week ends at home by means of passes issued for that purpose.

Information may be obtained at the post office or by writing to Army Recruiting Station, 129 Lisbon St., Lewiston.

The Browning Reading Club will meet Monday evening, October 29. Mrs. Gertrude Libby, hostess. Program includes roll call, Items on Expedition. Article on "Byrd Antarctic Expedition," Mrs. Alice Fuller.

TRADE MERCHANTS' CHARACTERISTICS

We number among our friends hundreds of merchants in various lines of trades. There is no finer class of men in the world than the retail merchants—but they do have their peculiarities. Some have more than others, of course. Do you recognize any of the following?

THE SUPER-WISE MERCHANT—Here you have the merchant who tells you he's been in business forty years and "ther' ain't nobody can tell him how to run a store." And at the very moment he's telling you that, you can spot a dozen things he is overlooking in store service. He is never open to suggestion. He talks with great fluency but listens with difficulty. As a citizen he doesn't register very high in popularity, particularly among his fellow merchants. Loves to talk about his shrewd buying, but doesn't mention the stickers he still has on his shelves. Know him?

Obituary

Freeland V. Saunders

After about two years of illness caused by pernicious anemia, Freeland V. Saunders passed away October 18, at his home on Water Street.

He was born in Hebron, May 27, 1870, the son of Isaac and Sarah Thomas Saunders. The family came to Norway when he was small, where he resided several years. He was a blacksmith and worked away most of the time since learning the trade. For five years he was employed at the Morey Farm in Mechanic Falls and poor health caused him to return to Norway.

Mr. Saunders was twice married and is survived by his second wife, Ruth Saunders, one son, Beverly, of Norway, and one daughter, Beatrice, wife of Ransom Grover of Bolster's Mills, also two stepsons, Kenneth and Edward Fields. He also leaves one sister, Mrs. Beverly Truman, of Norway, and a brother, Scott Saunders, of Mechanic Falls, and several nephews and nieces.

Services were held at Spiller's Funeral Home, Sunday afternoon, attended by Rev. Pliny A. Allen. The bearers were four nephews. Interment was at Norway Pine Grove Cemetery.

Isaac W. Abbott

Isaac W. Abbott, aged 96, the oldest man in Norway, and for ten years bedridden and helpless, passed away at his home on Lower Main Street, October 20. The immediate cause of his death was pneumonia of two days duration.

The deceased was born in Hanover, Jan. 20, 1832, the son of Isaac and Betsy Lovejoy Abbott, and the only surviving member of a family of 10 children. He spent his early life in the neighborhood of Howard's Gore so called, near Howard's Pond. Afterwards, the family lived on the John Harlow farm and for a time resided in Oxford, then in Andover.

About eighty years ago the Abbott family settled in Norway. At the age of seventeen, he finished his apprenticeship as brick mason under Tom Poole and followed that trade for many years.

He married Clara Lamson in Boston, Mass., Nov. 13, 1856. Four children were born to them, two died in infancy. Two daughters survive, but his wife passed away several years ago.

Mr. Abbott was unusually spry until about ten years ago when he broke his hip. He recovered to the extent of using crutches, when a second fall left him practically helpless and bedridden. During all the years he has been tenderly cared for by his daughter at the homestead.

He belonged to no order, but was a member of the Universalist parish.

The deceased leaves his daughter, Mrs. Florence Green, of Otisfield, and Miss Clara Louise Abbott, of Norway.

Funeral services at the home Tuesday at 2 o'clock were attended by Rev. Pliny A. Allen of the Universalist Church. Burial was in the family lot at Rustfield cemetery. The bearers were Eugene C. Libby, Merton Libby, Augustus A. Pottle and Joshua A. Yeaton, all neighbors of the deceased.

Cornelius Dorey

Cornelius Dorey, brother of Mrs. Hiram Wiles, dide Oct. 5th at Hemford, N. S., at the age of 64 years. He had undergone an operation in a hospital at Halifax. The funeral was held from the home of his sister, Mrs. H. A. Mailman, at Hemford, and was largely attended by relatives and friends and members of the I. O. O. F. of which he was a member. He is survived by five sisters, Mrs. H. A. Mailman of Hemford, Mrs. Sarah Demone of Simpson's Corner; Mrs. Hiram Wiles of Norway; Mrs. William Lowe of Bethel and Mrs. Cassandra Cole of Maine.

Norway High School

There is no school this week. The teachers are all going to Bangor to the State Teachers' Convention. The chimney in the gymnasium will be built over this week, to accommodate the new furnace.

A copy of the first issue of the "Caduceus Pup" is being turned in.

No rank cards will be sent out at the end of the half terms as has been done in the past. Warnings will be sent out to those who are getting less than 70 per cent and those getting A's will have their names posted on the bulletin board. Ranks will be sent out at the end of each term.

The high school orchestra played at the Grange fair, Friday evening.

The girls are filling up their basket ball schedule.

Preliminary plans are being made for the high school fair.

The South Paris football game which was scheduled for Saturday, November 10th, will be postponed until Armistice Day, Monday, November 12th. It is hoped that a large crowd will attend this game.

The Friday morning assembly was held as usual this week. Maurice Flint of the Students' Council furnished a short program as follows:

Piano Solo .... Mildred Gallant
Piano Duet .... Margaret Morrill, Gwendolyn Bicknell
Presentation of Typewriting Awards .... Mrs. Klain

After the program, a "pep" meeting was held.

BOSTON POST CANE

The passing of I. W. Abbott at 96 necessitates the finding of another entitled to the cane.

It is the duty of the selectmen to do this if the intentions of the gift are properly carried out.

Mr. Abbott has held the cane the longest of anyone as yet.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Witham have moved into the downstairs rent in the Tubbs rent on Danforth Street.

Cultivate the Habit of Buying in Norway

Norway Merchants Are Anxious to Please You—Stand Back of Their Goods—Solicit Your Trade

Now a new season is at hand, there is much to buy in the way of clothes, furnishings, bridge prizes, etc., why not start or continue the habit of buying in Norway?

Did you ever notice how much trading the people who come to Norway and vicinity for the summer, do right here in our local stores? They who have access to the largest cities in the winter. A member of one of Washington's most exclusive families who comes to the northern part of Maine as a summer resident, sent to one of our local stores by a friend for a certain article.

The writer took a turn not long since through all our stores, including the gift shop, and found everything, it seems, one could want for ordinary use.

Our merchants take pains to select the best in their line and are ever ready to send for anything one may desire. They know where to order you clothes made to fit or whatever the article may be that is wanted. They have a wonderful assortment of gifts in all the stores and anyone can do well to buy their Christmas presents even now.

Have been in some of the largest cities of our country and realize how much easier shopping can be done here in our own little town, without getting jostled about, worn out and tired to death and we can do just as well, if not better. You can get more for your money. Then when you go away for pleasure, you can enjoy the theatre, etc., and not be bothered with shopping.

Suppose we all tried it just for a season, shopped at home and enjoyed the prosperity it would bring to Norway.

Norway Grange Fair

Annual Fair and Chicken Pie Supper Held Last Friday

The annual fair, supper and entertainment held at the Grange Hall, Friday afternoon and evening, was a social and financial success. Several tables were attractive with covers of white and decorations of evergreen and red alder berries. The vegetable, apron table, candy, mystery booth and miscellaneous table were filled with attractive articles. The annual chicken pie supper for which the Grange is noted, called out a large patronage. The tables were attractive with flowers which came from Lakeside Inn.

After the supper was the entertainment with program as follows:

Selections .... High School Orchestra
Reading, "Aunt Hannah Hayseed in the City", Encore, "Maine" .... Charlotte Longley
Violin and Saxaphone Duet ....
Miss Flanders and Kenneth Goodwin accompanied by Miss Ada Reed.
Reading, "There'll Be Room in Heaven for Us All" .... Mrs. Annie Brown
Vocal solo with violin accompaniment ....
.... Emery Wentzell
Piano Solo .... Miss Ada Reed
Reading .... Miss Baker
Trio
Miss Baker, Miss Flanders and Mr. Goodwin

In the second part Mellie Dunham and his "niggers" gave a laughable, regular, old time breakdown. The stage was dressed to represent a cornfield, with the stacks of corn, pumpkins and squash. A group of colored people were celebrating a holiday and they sung old time songs, cracked jokes on the townspeople, had clog dancing aand a real time. One of the men played on a saw; Mellie fiddled and others danced, and the clog given by one of the young "colored" women, would be hard to beat. The preacher delivered a sermon and the quartet sang.

Several articles to be disposed of were announced. One quilt, was auctioned off by Howard Knightly and Mrs. Knightly was the highest bidder. A long list of names, that had been subscribed will be written in the quilt. Another quilt, that went by vote, fell to Mrs. Edith Buck. Mrs. Edith Knightly won the small "hope chest" that which was filled with chocolates. Mrs. Alfred Monk won the two pound fancy box of chocolates that was given at the candy table. The candy table earned $25.50. A large squash at the vegetable table had its weight guessed. C. A. Richardson and Will Young ach guessed within a quarter of a pound and in the last "draw" Mr. Richardson won the squash which weighed 15 3-4 pounds. Mellie, Nate Noble and Mrs. Eva Jackson played for dancing which closed a successful day.

Wedding

Richardson-Smith

Irving L. Richardson of Springfield, Mass. and Miss Madelyn W. Smith of Oxford, were united in marriage, Sunday evening, Oct. 14, at 8.30. The ceremony was performed by Rev. John Singleton at the Methodist parsonage, the single ring service was used. The attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Alva Smith of Oxford, parents of the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Richardson will make their home in Norway during the winter then go to Connecticut.

VERANDA CLUB

The Veranda Club met with Mrs. Maggie Libby for its annual chicken pie supper with covers laid for 22 members. A fine supper was enjoyed by all. Mrs. Libby presented the Club with a beautiful decorated birthday cake as she was unable to attend the birthday anniversary in June, Mrs. Libby was given a surprise when, in behalf of the Club, the president, Clara Ames, presented her with 3 silver tablespoons and some dishes which will help replace some lost at the time her home was burned about a year ago. The business meeting followed, the following officers have been elected for the year:

President—Clara Ames.
Senior Vice—Rhoda McKay.
Secretary—Virgalyn Murdock.
Treasurer—Clara Jordan.

Two more quilts are to be tacked soon. The next meeting will be with Avis Davis, Thursday evening, November 1.

A social hour followed, all departed at a late hour for home, voting it one of the bright spots in the Club gatherings and wishing Mrs. Libby much happiness in her beautiful new home.

Miss Tessa R. Thibodeau is spending the week with her sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Rowe, at Woodfords.

Mrs. Lizzie McAllister has returned after spending two months with relatives and friends in the western part of Maine, and in New Hampshire. She has a room at the corner of Whitman and Maple Streets.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Corey and daughter spent Sunday with his brother and family at Gilead.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Rice, Richard Perkins of Lewiston and Mrs. Florence Rice of Brooklyn, N. Y., were Sunday visitors in town.

Supreme Judicial Court

The jury disagreed Saturday in the case of Walter J. Irvine, 15, of South Paris, charged under an indictment of involuntary manslaughter. After a deliberation of more than six hours, the drawn jury reported that an agreement was impossible.

The case developed from an accident in which a pedestrian, Gordon Wheeler, aged 10, of Paris, was instantly killed by an automobile, on the bridge between West Paris village and Trap Corner, early Sunday afternoon, Oct. 7. The respondent who was driving the Studebaker car, and Kenneth C. Blossom, one of the occupants, were arrested shortly after the accident. As the grand jury returned no indictment against Blossom, owner of the car, he was released from bail under which he had been held.

Attorney William Flannagan for the State, charged negligence and carelessness in operating the car. That the brakes were faulty and known to be so by the respondent, besides he had too little knowledge of that make for travel on a public highway.

Highway Officer Chas. E. Patten testified that he found the brakes were not working properly after the accident, and marks on the planking of the bridge indicated that the wheels slid for three feet, then turned as usual. The car was stopped 150 feet beyond.

Measurements taken gave the bridge as 42 feet long and of the stringer type, 16 3-4 feet wide between stringers and planking 11 feet wide laid lengthways of the bridge and within about 2 feet of the railing on either side.

Dr. W. B. Raymond of South Paris, county medical examiner, described the nature of the injuries that caused instant death.

Alfred Scribner, aged 7, testified that Gordon was playing with him before the accident and started from the yard for home. He saw him near the middle of the bridge just before the Irvine car passed the Scribner house.

The defense was that the driver did all that was humanly possible under the circumstances, to avert the accident. Walter Irvine told how with his party of friends, including Kenneth C. Blossom of South Paris, Rubira Sharon, Bernice Sharon and Ida Gammon, all of Norway, while motoring from West Paris toward Trap Corner they approached the bridge at a moderate speed. At the Davis house he observed a Ford coupe coming toward them onto the opposite end of the bridge. Irvine and three companions testified the speed of their car was materially reduced and entered the bridge before the coupe passed out. At that time he saw the boy for the first time standing on the right about twenty feet away and within two feet of the stringers.

The respondent applied the brakes and slid the wheels in an ineffectual attempt to steer between the boy and the coupe. He partially succeeded, the front end of his car cleared the narrow space but according to the evidence, the rear hit the coupe. The defense argued that this impact sent the rear of the respondent's car against the boy. Irvine said he couldn't tell much what he did immediately after the collision, only that he shut off the gas, released the brakes and went some over a hundred feet before coming to a stop on the left side of the highway. At that time he was not aware he hit the boy.

Evidence was introduced that the bridge is on an angle to the road and that lattice work together with trees and shrubs obstructed the view. The defense claimed that it is difficult and nearly impossible to see a person walking on the bridge from the approach on the West Paris side. The view is clear directly at that end.

The defense pointed out the fact the planks laid lengthways offered only slight resistance to the set wheels, but after the driver set his brakes he did all any person could do in an attempt to stop quickly.

County Attorney W. J. Flannagan represented the state, Alton C. Wheeler of Auburn and E. Walker Abbott of South Baris were attorneys for the respondent.

Only thirteen minutes was needed by the jury, Monday, to decide that Edward Walton of Lewiston was guilty of the charge of operating a Packard sedan while intoxicated on the highway at No. Bethel.

Fred Ferguson, George O. Richardson and Carroll Black, employed by the state highway department, testified that they helped an automobile from the ditch on the evening of July 11. In the car were the respondent and Ralph Draper of Lewiston. The three witnesses testified that Edward Walton carried a strong odor of liquor on his breath and that he was unsteady. Ferguson and Richardson said that after the car was righted, the respondent drove it some ten feet before being stopped by the first witness. Sheriff W. O. Frothingham, testified that when he arrived some four hours later the respondent's breath still bore the odor of liquor.

Edward Walton, who was recovering from flu and brought into court on a stretcher, denied driving the car at any time and affirmed that his only drink for the day was Moxie, root beer and other non-alcoholic beverages. Ralph Draper testified that he himself was driving at time of the mishap, but not there when the auto was put back onto the highway.

Dana Williams, attorney for the respondent, appealed for clemency after the verdict, and called attention to the respondent's physical condition, which would be greatly impaired by a jail sentence. Mrs. Walton also told about previous ill spells that undermined his health. Justice Dunn imposed a sentence of 60 days in the county jail.

One panel of the jury held over from last week was discharged late Monday afternoon, all other jurymen having been discharged Saturday.

The docket was cleared Monday, the last being several divorce hearings uncontested.

Fines and Sentences

Raymond O. Winter, Dixfield, operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor. Sixty days in jail.

Dominic Gironda, Rumford, unlawful possession. Fine of $300 and three months in jail, or in default of fine six months additional.

John Belush, Rudolph Patnaude and Leo Giroux, boys of about 14, Rumford, breaking and entering and larceny. Committed to State School for Boys during their minority, or an alternative sentence of ninety days in jail.

Ralph Thomas, Joseph Kurisko and George Gauvin, boys of about 18, all of Berlin, N. H., larceny. Sentenced to 30 days in jail, to date from Sept. 21, the time when they were committed on this charge.

Bronis Belskis, Rumford, convicted of unlawful possession. Fine of $100 and two months in jail.

Joe Zekciousis, Rumford, unlawful possession. Fine of $200 and three months in jail.

William LaFrance, Canton, nuisance. Fine of $300 and four months in jail.

SOUTH PARIS NEWS

Frank Bennett

Frank Bennett passed away at his home on Park Street, October 20, after several months of failing health. His age was 74 years.

Mr. Bennett was the son of George and Mahala (Pillsbury) Bennett, and was born in Buckfield, August 1, 1854. He married Helen Frances, daughter of Peleg Hammond and widow of Osborn Ripley, and they settled on the farm about two miles north of Paris Hill which was their home for forty-three years. About three years ago they moved to South Paris. Mr. Bennett was a Mason, member of Paris Lodge.

He is survived by a widow and three children, A. Guy Bennett of Toronto, Ontario, Mrs. May Hazelton of South Paris, and Stanley Bennett of Bridgton. Another son, Leslie, died about four years ago. There is also a stepson, Perley F. Ripley of South Paris, a son of Mrs. Bennett by her former marriage.

There also survive two sisters Mrs. Elizabeth Bicknell of Waterbury, Ct., and Miss Helena Bennett of Portland.

The funeral was held at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon, attended by Rev. Pliny Allen of Norway. Burial was in Riverside Annex.

Golden Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. John Hayden celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary, Monday evening, according to plans laid by relatives and friends.

By a pre-arranged plan, they were invited to the home of their daughter, Mrs. Clarence G. Morton, where twenty-one members of the family gathered, supposedly for a luncheon. While Mr. and Mrs. Hayden were unwrapping wedding gifts, Rev. E. B. Tetley, pastor of the Baptist Church, and H. Walter Dennison extended greetings and in behalf of the Baptist Church invited the party to the church vestry where willing hearts and hands had prepared to do them honor. Upon their arrival they were showered with confetti and to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, played by Mrs. William Smith, the party was ushered into the vestry which was decorated.

Over the long white tables decorated with lighted yellow candles, yellow srteamers were festooned from the electric lights. At the center of the table, surrounded by the wedding party numbering 21, the bride and groom of 50 years ago took their places under three wedding bells, while in front of them a bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums, a gift from the Baptist Ladies' Aid, also a bouquet of yellow dahlias from the Davis farm, graced the occasion. Seventy-four sat down to the covered dish supper and everything went merrily. Included in the refreshments were two wedding cakes joined together and decorated with yellow roses, made by their daughter, Mrs. Clarence G. Morton. Mrs. Hayden cut and served the cake.

Rev. E. B. Tetley acted as toastmaster and with fitting remarks presented to Mr. and Mrs. Hayden, in behalf of the church of which they are devoted members, a very nice Bible. Mr. Hayden responded feelingly.

A trio, "Silver Threads Among the Gold" was sung by Miss Musa Taylor, Mrs. Barbara Sampson and Clayton Churchill. An original poem, "Fifty Long Long Years" by Mrs. Maude Gray was read by Mrs. Margaret Taylor. A duet, "We're Growing Old Together, You and I" was sung by Miss Musa Taylor and Mrs. Barbara Sampson. An original poem written for the occasion by Miss Ethel Thomes was read by Miss Thomes.

Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Wilson of Yarmouth, former workers in this church, were present, Rev. Mr. Wilson spoke feelingly and extended congratulations. All gathered around the piano and sung old time songs.

Liquor Cases in Local Court

Lowe Faunce and Perley Faunce, both of Andover, were arrested Saturday by Deputy Sheriff John M. Farrington, on the charge of manufacturing intoxicating liquor. They were taken before Trial Justice Albert D. Park, who found probable cause, after listening to the testimony given by Sheriff Farrington under oath and put them under bonds of $1,000 each, for their appearance at the February term of Supreme Judicial Court.

Frank Bisson, Peru; William L. Ash, Otisfield, and Frank Dubois, Rumford, were arrested last Friday by Highway Officer James A. Adams, for overloading a motor truck 20 per cent above that specified in the registration certificate. They were taken before Trial Justice Albert D. Park Saturday morning, each plead guilty and paid a fine of $5 and costs each.

Merton K. Clifford represented the C. H. Howard Company at the annual Rexall Convention at Boston the first of the week.

Harry Brown's residence on Pine St., is being painted cream color with green trimmings.

Composition shingles have been laid on the roofs of the residence of Earle R. Clifford and Joe Jones.

Mrs. Grace Starbird, grand chief of the Pythian Sisters, returned Sunday, after being a guest of Mrs. John McNeil of Portland. Mr. and Mrs. Harold Elder, Mrs. Alta Mitchell and Mrs. John McNeil accompanied her to South Paris, where they were the dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Everett.

Callers at Everett Abbott's, Sunday, October 21, were Mr. and Mrs. Aiden Maxim and baby Priscilla, Cecil Abbott of Portland, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hayford and family of Livermore Falls, F. Lester Jones of Randerhoff, Mass., Miss Doris Kelly of Portland, Edna Snow of Portland, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Leighton, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Abbott of Lowell, Mass.

Everett Abbott is sick with pneumonia, at home.

W. H. Millett of Worcester, Mass., is visiting his sister, Mrs. James M. Millett.

Wilburn Miller was home form Tufts College for a few days, including Columbus Day.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Gilbert of Canton were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Forbes over the week end.

If the mild weather continues, Shaw's Orchestra will keep up dances at Locke's Mills until November 3.

Alphonzo Allen went out, Friday, for the first time after several weeks' illness. He is gaining slowly but not able to do any work.

G. W. McGinley is home from Concord, N. H., for a while. He has been employed on construction work for the past few months.

Recent guests at Dr. C. W. Nelson's were Mr. and Mrs. Howard Barrus of Barnstable, Cape Cod, Mass., and Mrs. Nelson's mother, Mrs. May Darrach, of Edgartown, Mass.

Prof. Arthur N. Leonard of Bates College was the speaker for the Community Club, Tuesday afternoon. His informal talk was on "Post-War Germany." Mrs. Laura J. Best, public health nurse, was also a speaker.

Mrs. Bertha S. Abbott has returned from the Central Maine General Hospital and is making good recovery after a surgical operation. Neuritis in one foot is causing much trouble.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur R. Swan and children attended a family reunion at the home of Mrs. Swan's mother, Mrs. G. A. Chandler, at West Sumner, on Saturday.

Mrs. Charlotte Peters is breaking up housekeeping and will soon go to the home of her niece, Mrs. Alice Allen, for the winter.

ODE TO HARTFORD, CONN.

By Harry G. Chase

From the city by the river that flows on to the sea,
There comes a voice of greeting which oft' appeals to me.
And as I pause and listen to the low and sweet refrain,
It makes my heart to gladden that I'm here once more again.
For one may travel through the country and all the country 'round,
He will see no fairer city than old Hartford town.
With its ivied shops and houses, its insurance buildings fine,
Whose history is famous, none better of their kind.
Thy parks so green and vernal where the wild bird sings so free,
'Mid the roses and the lilies in their beauty fair to see.
Through thy streets so clean and shaded where move the busy throng,
What a picture, what a pleasure to no: this pleasant morn.
The lure of thy beauty, the charm of thy smile
Will linger in memory when in the dark wild.
Or when tossed on the billows of old ocean's foam,
We will think of thee ever, fair Hartford, our home.
When my eyes are closed forever and the debt to Nature paid,
May I rest beneath the sunshine, amid fair Hartford's shade,
Where the breezes wander gently o'er the green and grassy lea,
In the city by the river that flows on to the sea.

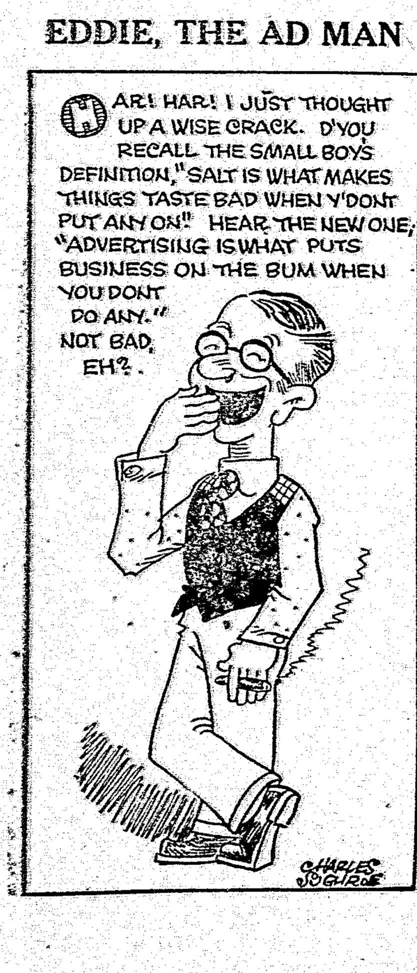

THE OLD FASHIONED SLEIGH RIDE

Did you ever ride down a country road,
With the snow piled high each side,
And hear the music of merry bells
As by woods and fields you glide?
The bright stars shining overhead,
And below the runners creak,
And you laugh as you dash through "thank you marms",
And the cold winds fan your cheek.
Away, away, o'er the frosty road,
O'er the hard and frozen snow,
Your heart is warm within you
And you sing all the songs you know.
The world is all white about you,
And you love the crisp, cold air,
And each leafless twig beside the road
Is tipped with jewels rare.
Oh what joy to ride in an open sleigh
And your happiness is complete
If you have a jolly companion,
And a soapstone at your feet.
'Tis years since I've had a sleigh ride,
But my heart with happiness swells
When I think of the moonlight rides I've had,
How I've laughed with the jingling bells.

Maine's Plan of Development

Big Increase in Achievements Proving Profitable to the Whole State

How the Maine Development Commission is working to promote the state's farming, industry, recreation and education in the belief that Maine's schools, factories, her hotels and camps and her agriculture will soon be on the high road to a prosperity which will focus the attention of the New England States, was the subject of a talk here last week by Vico C. Isola, Executive Secretary of the Commission, to the Rotary Club at its dinner at the Exchange Hotel.

Approximately $61,000 is at the disposal of the Commission this year, Mr. Isola said, thanks to the co-operation of the cities and towns, whose contributions this year added some $11,000 to the legislative appropriation. It is also due to this co-operation that the "Maine Plan," as the help of these communities has come to be known, is being watched by states in the South and West which are planning promotion work similar to that under way here.

Mr. Isola said that Maine's fame as a recreational, farming and industrial section had been broadcast this year in five national magazines and twenty newspapers, several of them of national circulation. Booklets, folders, maps and other educational matter has been issued in answer to a demand which is way over that of last season. More than 1,135 columns of articles, photographs, and editorials are now on display in the offices of the Commission, the result of the publicity department's work in the last eight months, or a total of about 203,000 newspaper lines, or 138 pages. This is in addition to broadcasting by radio, talks by Commission members and motion pictures of Maine events which have circulated throughout the United States. As an example of the methods which the Commission is taking to acquaint the country with Maine's attractions, Mr. Isola cited the 7,000-mile automobile trip which Clarence C. Stetson, chairman of the Commission, is now making to carry the picture of Maine into more than thirty states. In this connection Mr. Isola pointed to the fact that no member of the Commission receives any salary or even reimbursement for his expenses.

Preliminary reports have been received, Mr. Isola said, from four committees which are preparing the surveys of the state's farming, education, recreation and industry to find out just where Maine stands as to her assets and her possibilities for a new prosperity for her citizens. As a means of finding out what can be done for the youth of the state to make them want to remain here rather than go to larger centers, the Commission will soon call a Junior Economic Conference, Mr. Isola said, in which the colleges and business organizations will cooperate on this important problem.

Public Men I Have Known

No. 2

By C. F. Whitman

The Judge who was preeminently, in legal learning, above all others the writer ever knew, was Charles W. Walton, who was born in the town of Mexico in Oxford County, Dec. 9, 1819. He passed away Jan. 24, 1900—just past 80 years of age. I have heard it said that no man with the possible exception of Chief Justice Prentiss Mellen—the first head of the Supreme Judicial Court of Maine—was as profoundly versed in the science of jurisprudence as Judge Walton. For several years before attaining his majority, he worked in the printing office of the Oxford Democrat on Paris Hill. He read law in the office of Gen. Henry Farwell, at Dixfield, and settled there in the practice of his profession, after being admitted to the bar in 1844. It is a singular fact that it is not generally known in what county he was admitted to practice. It has been stated by writers who did not take the trouble to look up the matter, that it was here in Oxford County, but it was not so. I once tried to find out, but failed. Whether the court records where I wrote were incomplete or the clerks were too indifferent to look the matter up, I never ascertained, and all I found out was that the grandson of the Judge who bore his name, Charles Walton Small, informed me that his grandfather once told him that he went to Farmington to be admitted, but finding that the court had just risen, he went to another place, which he, Small, had forgotten, and obtained his certificate to practice.

In four years after his admission to the bar, Walton was elected County Attorney and served four years. He conducted some prosecutions growing out of the new Maine Liquor Law during the latter part of his term and had some of the most eminent lawyers in the state opposed to him, among whom was Nathan Clifford, but he almost invariably won his cases. He moved to Auburn in 1855 and the following year his fame as a prosecuting officer having spread into the new county of Androscoggin—he was chosen there as County Attorney. In 1860, he was elected to Congress but before serving out his term, he resigned to accept a judgeship on the bench of the Supreme Judicial Court of Maine. Thirty-five years after—five appointments—he retired from the bench, loaded with honors and with the universal respect of all classes of the people of the State. He should have been Chief Justice for it was his due for his eminent legal mind and service.

One of the very last terms of the court he held was in the new court house at South Paris, when he had grown feeble physically, but not mentally, I met him at the outer door of the court house to welcome him. As we went through the corridor to the stairway, he put his arm around me and remarked that I was a model clerk and he was glad I had the office. This, coming from him, was praise indeed. It may well be supposed that I cherish his memory above all the able Judges under whom I served. My first experience with Judge Walton was as a witness in court, in the old court house on Paris Hill. As Judge of the Norway Municipal Court, I had bound over for the grand jury, a man charged with bigamy. The evidence, as I remember it, before me, of the second marrage, was that the respondent had introduced the woman in the case as his wife on several occasions. I found a decision on this ground in the Maine Reports that justified my holding the alleged criminal for a hearing in the higher court. The grand jury found an indictment against him. At the trial in court, the respondent's attorney undertook to grill me on cross examination for my decision, but Judge Walton wouldn't allow him to do it. I shall never forget his decided manner as he said, "These questions are not proper, Mr. Attorney, ask those that are." The lawyer took this emphatic hint and subsided. I went to my seat with a grateful regard for Judge Walton, which has never gone from my heart or faded out of my memory.

While Judge Walton was at one time holding court on Paris Hill, the late Geo. Small, a Norway painter, was a witness in a liquor case. He was pretty well loaded with poor whiskey, but could talk quite clearly and handle himself fairly well. During his testimony, he kept looking at the lawyer who was questioning him and spoke so low that several of the jurymen could not hear him. These were leaning forward with serious looking faces as if unable to clearly make out what Small's answers were. The Judge noticing this, said, "Mr. Witness, address the jury."

"Upon what subject, your honor?" promptly inquired Small. We all laughed at this for no raps of the Sheriff on his desk for order could possibly prevent it. Small realized that somehow—he didn't understand exactly how or what it was—he had made a grave mistake.

During the first term of the court, in the new court house at South Paris, Judge Walton asked me to take him down cellar for the purpose of examining the foundation of the building. He had learned that it had only cost fifty thousand dollars and he thought there must be some poor work about it somewhere and not seeing any indication of flaws above the bottom floors, he concluded that the foundation must be faulty, but after examining it all very critically, he said, "Whitman, I don't see how such a building with such a foundation could have been built for fifty thousand dollars. It would have cost at least seventy-five thousand dollars in any other county." I considered this a great tribute to the county commissioners for keeping a constant oversight of the work on the court house when it was being erected, and told him so. The board then was Wm. W. Whitmarsh of Norway, Joseph F. Stearns of Lovell, and George W. Ridlon of West Paris. All of them were frequently there, but Mr. Ridlon spent the most of his time in seeing that all the material used was first-class and the building was being properly constructed according to the specifications.

Joseph Holt, the Norway fish peddler of former days, was once indicted and convicted for rum selling. The principal witness against him was George Small, before mentioned. Joe paid a fine and was let off. He remonstrated with Small for testifying aganst him.

"I 'pose yer evidence 'dited me," said Joe. "How could yer do it, George?"

"Wal, Joe, I drink, an' sometimes git boozy, but I won't take a false oath for you or anybody else."

"But couldn't ye have 'varicated a little, George?" retorted Joe. Some bystanders shouted with laughter as, without answering the queston, Small turned and started for his paint shop.

A Week in Oxford County

By O. L. Evans

Taken from Piscataquis Observer

When F. W. Sanborn of the Norway Advertiser ("Buy or Borrow a Copy") was, as he expressed it, "marooned" in Dover-Foxcroft several days in July because of the illness of his housekeeper, who with Mr. Sanborn and party had been spending some time at Moosehead Lake, he frequently visited The Observer office, having long been friendly with the Editor, L. P. Evans, and for a shorter period with myself.

Mr. Sanborn's friendship is of such long standing and so sincere and his success in the newspaper business so marked, that criticism from him is always welcome (though not always heeded), and in the course of his vsits to The Observer's plant he discovered several of our methods which he considered could be improved upon.

The outgrowth of these criticisms was an invitation from Mr. Sanborn for Mrs. Evans and myself to visit Norway where I could spend a few days in the Advertiser office, examine its innermost workins and bring back with me any ideas which I thought worthwhile. This invitation was gladly accepted, and on Sunday, Sept. 16, we sallied forth.

Dinner time providentially found us in Hallowell and of course the natural thing to do was to dine at The Worster which is famed far and wide for its fine meals. The dining room, as usual, was crowded, and many were waiting, but since there were but two of us in the party, we were given a table at once. Those who have eaten Sunday dinner at The Worster know what a feast we had; those who have never been there little realize what they have missed.

From Hallowell we journeyed on to Brunswick where a detour was made to inspect the new Union and other improvements at Bowdoin College; then on to Lewiston, Poland Spring and Norway.

We were guests while in Norway of Mr. Sanborn's nephew, Ralph S. Osgood, business manager of the Norway Advertiser, and it should be recorded here that Mr. Osgood is a most generous and courteous host and our stay in his home was much enjoyed.

Monday forenoon was spent in the office where Mr. Sanborn, Mr. Osgood, and Ernest Murch, the foreman, each did his share in initiating me into some of the preliminary mysteries of the establishment. The office is well equipped with machinery, including two linotypes, and other material necessary to produce one of the best country weeklies in the state and also do a large volume of job printing. Mr. Sanborn has been in the printing business for many years, and the experience he has gained is reflected in the methods used in his plant, many of which it is hoped will eventually be adopted in The Observer office.

Monday afternoon Mrs. Evans and I went to North Bridgton, where we called on my cousin, Harold H. Sampson, principal of Bridgton academy, and his family, and on his mother, Mrs. Laura G. Sampson of Dexter, who is matron of the Boys' Dormitory at the school. Mr. Sampson has been at the head of Bridgton Academy for several years and the school has prospered greatly under his leadership. The enrollment is now about 150 boys and girls, many of the former coming from Massachusetts. North Bridgton is an ideal spot for a school and there are few things there to distract students' attention from their work.

Tuesday forenoon Mr. Sanborn had business in South Paris and since Walter Smith, who drives the car, was otherwise engaged, I drove him over, accompanied by Mrs. Evans and Don C. Seitz. Mr. Seitz was spending the week in Norway, and since he is a great friend of Mr. Sanborn's, we saw much of him and enjoyed every moment of our conversations with him, for he is a very brilliant man.

Mr. Seitz learned the printing business in the office of the Norway Advertiser and for over a quarter of a century was business manager of the New York World. He is now engaged in writing and has to his credit numerous biographies, including one of Joseph Pulitzer, one of Horace Greeley, and one of Artemus Ward, besides many magazine and newspaper articles now being syndicated. Though his career has taken him far from Norway, Mr. Seitz has a very warm place in his heart for the town, and returns to it whenever possible, much the same as Marshall B. Downing, James W. Elms and Charles H. Bowden return to Dover-Foxcroft.

While we were waiting for Mr. Sanborn to transact his business, we called on Arthur E. Forbes, in the editorial sanctum of his paper, the Oxford Democrat. Mr. Forbes has been in the publishing business for many years and is a well known figure at the meetings of the Maine Press Association.

When Mr. Sanborn rejoined us he proposed that we drive to Bethel, a proposition to which we all readily acceded. The ride from South Paris to Bethel is a delightful one, the vistas of Oxford county's hills and of the White Mountains beyond being very lovely. At Bryant's Pond we stopped and paid our respects at the printing establishment of A. Mont Chase. Part of Mr. Sanborn's religion is to call at every printing office which he encounters in his travels, and of course this one was not to be passed by. He had in this particular instance an ulterior motive in calling, for he wished to borrow of Mr. Chase an overcoat to use during the remainder of the ride.

Mr. Chase's son is engaged in business with him and when he learned I was from Dover-Foxcroft he told me that in that town he married his wife, formerly Miss Marguerite Elms of Dover-Foxcroft and Guilford.

Our next stop was at Bethel where we again sniffed printer's ink in the office of the Oxford County Citizen. Bethel's beautiful location, in the foothills of the White Mountains alone would make it famous. To increase its fame, however, there is the Bethel Inn, one of the most popular of the fine hotels of the state; there is the home of the richest man in the State of Maine, William Bingham, a very modest dwelling, little disclosing the fact that it houses a man who in one year has paid an income tax of over $300,000; there is Gould academy which is of particular interest to me since my grandfather, Dr. David Evans, attended that institution before entering Bowdoin Medical School, and which now possesses a fine dormitory and athletic buidings, gifts of Mr. Bingham.

From Bethel we proceeded home through Albany and Waterford. Although I had been in Oxford county several times before, I was impressed more than ever this time by the immense amount of forest land within its confines. One can drive in many directions for miles and not encounter a clearing, to say nothing of a farm house. And this is between villages, and not in a distinctly wild land section, such as the Ripogenous road in Piscataquis county. On passing a lonely farm house I commented on what life must be there in the winter, and Mr. Seitz said that during that period of the year the inhabitants denned up like bears and sucked their paws.

Tuesday afternoon about four oclock, Mrs. Evans, Ralph and I started for Mr. Sanborn's so-called Farm, situated at Round Pond, about four miles from Norway village. Round Pond is small enough so that Mr. Sanborn owns it and its shores outright and thus can control it in every respect. He has endeavored to insure good fishing in the pond by stocking it with trout on several occasions, but, to quote Mr. Seitz, the fate of the fish is a "piscatorial mystery," for they are never in evidence, and fishing there is very indifferent sport.

This failure to produce good fishing and the quite considerable sum of money represented by the whole establishment have caused some of Mr. Sanborn's hardhearted friends to dub it "Sanborn's Folly," and as one leaves the main highway and enters the gate, a sign bearing that legend first meets his eye.

The distance from the highway to the lake is one-half mile, and Mr. Sanborn owns a right of way 16 feet wide from the center of the road on each side. This right of way has been cleared of underbrush, although the trees are still standing, and on the edge on each side has been set out a row of cedar trees, which makes a very effective hedge.

The construction of a road through the woods necessitated the moving of a large quantity of rocks, and instead of having these heaved into the woods, Mr. Sanborn had built a number of stone monuments of various sizes and shapes, such as pyramids, cones, cubes, etc. Each one of these structures, representing hours of arduous labor, has a name, and a sign nearby tells the stranger what it is. The first one encountered is The Chocolate Drop, a huge conical shaped structure, 10 or 12 feet high, I should say, and bearing on its face a bronze tablet with the following inscription:

Zubie
A faithful bitch
1905-1915
Erected by Jospph Lary

Zubie was one of Mr. Sanborn's Airedales, a dog Jack being similarly commemorated on a tablet elsewhere; and Joseph Lary is the caretaker at the Farm.

Other of these rock structures are the Pyramid, Forts Constitution and Lawrence, the Bee Hives, Joe's Couch, the State House, the Tabernacle, the Opera House and the Council Chamber, this last being a wigwam built on a cement base and provided with a stone fireplace.

The main house at the Farm is finished throughout in hard wood, and is superior to many houses found in any village. The kitchen contains every convenience, the living room with its huge fireplace is delightful, and there are three sleeping rooms on the second floor, one with fireplace and the other two heated with stoves so that the house can be occupied in winter as well as summer. The house is provided with a spacious piazza, part of which is screened, and in front of it a lawn, dotted with trees, slopes gradually to the shore of the pond. Other buildings at the Farm consist of the caretaker's house, stable, ice house, boat house and wood shed. The evening spent at the Farm was most enjoyable, and we were reluctant to leave the next morning for Norway.

Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. Evans and I again set forth, this time for Fryeburg. Our route took us through Waterford and Lovell to Fryeburg Harbor, where we called on my cousin, Mrs. Charles E. Stanley, and family, with whom in years past we had had several pleasant visits, including trips into the White Mountains. Since our last visit the Stanley home has been equipped with a bathroom and electric lights, which with a steam heating plant make it the equal in comfort of any home in town or country.

From Fryeburg Harbor we went to Fryeburg village where we called on Elroy O. LaCasce and family. Mr. LaCasce is a graduate of Bowdoin, having roomed for two years with Judge Harold M. Hayes of this town, and for several years has been principal of Fryeburg Academy. With Mrs. LaCasce, who is a graduate of Colby, he conducts a summer camp during vacations so that he is throughout the year associated with young people with whom he has been very successful.

From Fryeburg we hastened back to Norway, going through Bridgton, North Bridgton and Harrison, the only incidents of the return journey being my failure to make turns at junctions of roads necessitating in some instances a turning back and calling forth some pointed, and, I thought, unnecessary remarks from Mrs. Evans.

It would appear, perhaps, that my chief object in going to Norway—to get some idea of how things are conducted in the Advertiser office—was lost sight of in a round of pleasure trips. That, however, was not quite the case, for when I was in the office Mr. Sanborn and Ralph both devoted a good deal of time and thought in showing me just how and why things were done as they were and I feel that aside from an enjoyable vacation my time was indeed well spent.

Don't place too high a value on the man who talks too much. A penny can rattle around and make more noise than a thousand dollar bill.

Church Notes—Bowies Moved

The Jameson Local Union of Christian Endeavor held its semi-annual meeting at Steep Falls, Saturday, Oct. 13. Seven attended from our society, bringing home the banner for having most members present in proportion to number of members enrolled. We can keep the banner until May, when at the annual meeting it will have to be earned again, if we have it for the centennial. A great deal of credit was given our C. E. for keeping the society active through the winter in the absence of a pastor. We were elected a committee to try to form societies in nearby towns and to stimulate more interest in the Union. The Japanese twins again visited Sunday school with a cute program. Sunday, the children brought second-hand clothing and toys to send to our ex-pastor at Atlanta University, Georgia, to be given the negro children who are much in need. Angie Colby led the C. E., "The Christian's Duty as a Voter." There were twenty-six present. Reports of the Jameson Local Union were given by Clyde Sanborn, Myrtle Rose, Alice Sanborn and Hazel Ingalls. C. E. is asked to bring clothing and toys for the missionary barrel. The ladies of the church took up the carpet, recently. The interior of the church is to be entirely renovated.

The Star had two special rehearsals for their inspection which was the eighteenth.

Leon Ingalls and family went to Portland, recently, and saw the movie "The King of Kings."

Mrs. Jennie True and Barbara spent last week at Naples.

Nellie Berry entertained at bridge, Saturday evening, October 13, Addie Wentworth won high score.

The Bowies have moved to Jackson, N. H., where they are to have charge of a farm. All regret their leaving.

Hazel Wentworth was home from Berlin, N. H., where she is teaching, for the week end, recently.

Bessie Hale has gone to Massachusetts to work this winter.

Myrtle Rose is working at Bailey Trumbull's.

WEST PARIS—TRAP CORNER

Mr. and Mrs. E. Treworgy attended the Miners' Ball, Friday evening, Oct. 12.

Miss Minnie Stevens went to Bryant Pond, recently, with the ladies of the Good Will Society, to visit Mrs. Abner Mann.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Ridley and children spent Sunday, October 14, with Mrs. D. H. Curtis, at E. B. Davis'.

Recent callers at Earle Treworgy's included Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Dean and baby, E. B. Dean, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dean and granddaughter, Glenn Dean of South Paris, Mr. and Mrs. Powers of Lewiston.

Mrs. Toivo Saarinen spent a day recently with her mother, Mrs. Matson.

Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Bowker, Mr. and Mrs. Ellwood Pierce and sons, enjoyed a trip to Gorham and Glen Ellis Falls, Oct. 14, returning home by the way of Fryeburg.

A REAL OCTOBER SALAD

Do not allow yourself to get away from the daily salad habit, now that the weather is getting colder, and some of the usual salad ingredients are not at hand.

Health demands plenty of green vegetables and fresh fruit, in winter time as well as in summer. Here is an exceptionally good little salad that may be prepared at this season—at very little cost, too:

Peel oranges and remove all white skin. Cut into one-fourth inch slices and cut each slice into halves. Dice celery and apple and mix with mayonnaise. Arrange a circle of half-slices of oranges on a lettuce-covered salad plate, fill center with apple and celery mixture, and garnish with celery tips.

Worry is rust upon the blade.

"with an OK that counts"

Never Before Have We Offered Such Values on Reconditioned Used Cars

—Small Down Payment—Easy Terms!

Never before in our history have we delivered as many new Chevrolets as we have this year. Naturally a large part of this increased business involved the trade-in of the Chevrolet owner's previous car. This enables us to offer some exceptionally fine used cars that have been thoroughly inspected and reconditioned and carry the official red "O. K. That Counts" tag. This tag shows you exactly what has been done to put the car in mechanical condition for thousands of miles of satisfactory service. In buying these reconditioned cars from us you get definite assurance of quality and value—and this week you can buy them at very low prices that make them the greatest values we have ever offered. Make a small down payment and drive away the car of your choice—easy terms for the balance. See these cars today!

The registered Jersey bull and five cows of W. W. Abbott, which were sold to Dr. Merrill of South Paris, were taken from Mr. Abbott's barn last week.

Little Walter Hamlin, youngest son of Albert Hamlin, three years of age, fell into the mill pond near the flume above his grandfather Hamlin's carding mill, Saturday. The water is quite deep there and he sank out of sight. Stanley, the brother, six, was near, and in some way he managed to get Walter out. It looks like rather a narrow escape.

Celia Tarbox spent the week end with her cousin, Mildred Haynes.

A large attendance at church, Sunday morning. Mr. Bull conducted the services.

Mahlon Rogers and Lillian Millett were married on Saturday evening. Miss Millett is a graduate of Bridgton Academy in the class of 1928, the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Llewellyn Millett. Mr. Rogers is from Skowhegan and has been employed by W. W. Abbott for two years on a cream route. Our best wishes go with them and hope they will settle in our midst for we need young people so many leave to make their home in other places.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Monroe of Westford, Mass., and Mrs. Monroe's brother, John H. Doane, of Gunning Cove, Shelburne Co., N. S., arrived at Mr. Monroe's mother's, Mrs. A. A. Monroe's, Sunday evening for a few days. They came through Franconia, Crawford and Pinkham Notches in the White Mountains on the trip here.

THE HAPPY FAMILY

"They do have such good times together!"

Little Mrs. Turner's eyes followed wistfully the disappearing figures of the MacDougall's, her neighbors across the way. Lunch—and camera—and sweater-laden, with the dog bounding joyously before them, they were off—father, mother, and the three young MacDougalls—for a Saturday tramp in the woods.

"I was asking Mrs. MacDougall only yesterday," little Mrs. Turner went on, "how it is that although they all have special friends and hobbies of their own, they still manage to work and play and plan together so many good times. And do you know what Mrs. MacDougall answered? She laughed and said, 'Well I really think more than anything it's The Youth's Companion! In fact, I'm so sure of it that I should like to order it for a year as a present from our family to yours. Six months from now you can tell me if I wasn't right.'"

The MacDougalls are just one of thousands of households where The Youth's Companion is bringing not only entertainment in its fine book-length novels, serials, and short stories, but fresh interests, new ambitions, and deeper understandings through its feature articles and many special departments. Every page offers happiness to young and old alike.

EAST FRYEBURG

Miss Amelia Sanborn recently entertained a party of school friends from Boston and returned with them for a few days.

Mrs. Delle Goddu, Louis, Alida and Madeline Goddu of Winchester, Mass., were at Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Warren's over Columbus Day and the week end. Mr. and Mrs. Warren Goddu and party were at the Mountian Aqua Cottage at the same time.

Mrs. Mavis Warren has returned from a visit to her father at Stockton. He remains about the same.

A large party from here attended the harvest supper at South Bridgton, Wednesday evening. Everything was done to make everyone have a good time. Dunham's 7 piece orchestra gave several selections. Vocal solos by LaVanch Staley and several readings and recitations made a most delightful program, followed by games. There was an enormous crowd present, barely standing room.

Dr. Pleasant of Philadelphia has been a recent visitor at his bungalow.

Deer hunters are more numerous than fiddlers in tophet. It is hardly safe to be out.

Less crowded environments for your factory in

Maine's smaller centers of population

AN unhurried uncongested atmosphere has a beneficial effect on production. Employes can own their own homes, be responsible citizens in the community and more interested producers in the factory, with expensive turnover reduced to a minimum.

Wise manufacturers are considering these and other advantages which the less crowded environments of the smaller centers of population offer:

lower living costs and therefore lower labor costs, lower taxes, cheaper land, ample room for expansion, and in many cases less crowded shipping conditions and closer proximity to raw materials and markets.

MAINE

the Land of Remembered Vacations, is nationally known for its scenic beauty, its lakes and ponds and woods; fishing, hunting, boating; but it is not generally known that Maine is the home of many important manufacturing industries. Among its manufacturers are such well known concerns as:

Ault Williamson Co.
A. J. Bean Shoe Co.
Cushman Hollis Co.
Dana Warp Mills
Hyde Windlass Co.
Kennebec Canoe Co.

Widespread distribution of continuous, adequate power, such as is afforded through the interconnection of power resources of the Central Maine Power Company system gives the smaller centers of population an industrial status comparable with the big city.

Whether for main or branch points, any industry considering the importance and strategy of its location will be interested in the information available on the two hundred odd communities served by the interconnected lines of this Company. Correspondence is invited. Address INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT DEPARTMENT, CENTRAL MAINE POWER COMPANY, AUGUSTA, MAINE.

Heard and Seen at Advertiser Office

Merton Wyman: "I'm getting about a half of the usual crop of apples. Will have probably about 400 barrels. They go to the canning factory."

Judge Jones: "I've climbed 13 mountains this season and now going strong."

F. P. Stone, the druggist, called in Friday morning and presented the local editor with a beautiful pink rosebud of a choice variety. Mr. Stone says that several local ladies have vowed to get the better of him this year in respect to rose culture, but it seems a hard proposition. Mr. Stone has had roses in his home every day since June 15, and the bushes are still going strong and loaded with buds. We have noticed beautiful roses many times in Mr. Stone's store during the past summer, as well as many other varieties of flowers.

Lillian Jacobson was in Monday and placed an ad in the Intelligence Column for housework to do. She says she hopes that the ad will bring some inquiries.

Malcolm Gregg: "I'm selling out the stock at the Andover Farm. Closing it all out except a flock of hens. Have got a man to care for them and the building this winter."

Gene Lane of Berlin, N. H., called Monday. He was on his way to the Squire's Old Farm on Upton Ridge. He is to take some pictures of the place.

Mr. Field, inspector of shoes for the Norway Shoe Co., visited his home in Danville over the week end. He brings us a sample of his everbearing raspberries. They are red and rosy, plump and fat.

The boys tell a story about a recent sparring match at Ashton's drug store in which Perley May, the sociable clerk, made a personal contact with Lester Ashton's elbow. The punch raised a goose egg over Perley's left eye and a galoxy of stars along his mental horizon. This rough stuff was accidental during the course of a practical joke which miscarried, leaving Perley the goat.

Mrs. Hazel Demeritt, North Waterford, called Saturday afternoon to tell us how forgetful people are. A woman bought a hat from a milliner in the Grange Hall during the World's Fair and left it to be called for later in the day. The hat remains unclaimed but on the wrapper is the name "Mrs. Batchelder" without address. This may stir the memory of the owner. In miscellaneous department of the Intelligence Column tells where the hat may be procured.

"Gone to Gilead hunting." That is what Wm. C. Leavitt said the other morning of his store help. "Young Bill and Huff have gone. They must get a deer, or at least try to. Dr. F. A. Hayden went with Bill. I don't know who Huff took with him. Maybe they will get shot. Hope not."

Mrs. C. A. Flint was in Tuesday for her butter paper. She says they average well toward 40 pounds a week and hope, later, to be able to keep a dozen purebred cows and make more butter. She also said it had been a hard year on the farm, the apple trees were filled with blossoms but the crop was very light.

"Here are some items from Pigeon Hill and Welchville," was Mrs. C. S. Hunting's cheerful salutation as she entered the office, Tuesday. Of course we were glad to receive them and shall expect some every week from that source. Crisp items from any locality in Oxford County hit our subscribers scattered from coast to coast and from the gulf to the boundary of the "Promised Land."

Wilfully tipping over headstones in a cemetery is serious business. Harry E. Lovejoy, caretaker of Rustfield Cemetery, reports that eight headstones were turned over sometime between Saturday afternoon and Monday morning. This is not the work of the wind or other natural causes, but appearances point strongly to the human element. Clues are being run down which may result in trouble for the guilty persons.

Thanksgiving Day is Thursday, Nov. 29. Don't forget it!

Mrs. Bertha Lovejoy, 6 Cummings Place, would like to take mealers, and also has a room to let. She has placed an ad in the Intelligence Column.

Prince Steward of the back office force enjoyed an auto ride Friday evening, with members of his family and while up on the West Paris road, was obliged to bring his car almost to a standstill to allow a deer to cross the road. Needless to say, the Sanborn boys, who were in the party, were much excited over this event, and expressed their opinion of hunters who have the heart to pursue and kill these graceful creatures.

Judge Wm. F. Jones appeared before Judge Dunn at the Supreme Court, as attorney for Mrs. Abby J. Tubbs, who was indicted for "violating health order." The court told her in a pleasant way she must obey the health officers' orders and go and sin no more.

Maxine Richardson and Iva Yates brought us some pussy willows they picked Wednesday afternoon on Elm St.

We have plenty of small pads in two grades of paper, 15c and 25c per pound.

A DEER, FOX AND LAW

Ernest Hutchins and Herbert Butler have returned from a hunting trip to Black Pond, above and beyond Chesuncook, Maine. It is the same place they hunted in last year. They got a deer and had an adventure with the law.

Herbert Butler shot a fox, not aware it was contrary to the rules and regulations. He squared himself before Judge Hayes of Dover-Foxcroft, who remitted the fine and let him off easily with payment of cost.

It was a case of not knowing.

Before You Invest Investigate

According to Government authorities, about a billion dollars are lost to Americans each year through the purchase of "gold bricks" and other worthless investments—purchases made from unknown persons or without adequate information.

If you would avoid unnecessary risks with your own heard-earned money, be sure that those upon whom you rely possess honesty of purpose as well as ability to judge the merits of an investment.

This bank is anxious to help its depositors make sound investments. Through our arrangements with several of America's leading investment houses, we can offer you a broad choice of bonds and other securities yielding a liberal income.

Come in and talk with us when you have surplus funds to invest.

W. C. T. U. Meeting—Surprise Parties.

The W. C. T. U. met last Thursday, Oct. 18, with the presidnet, Mrs. Helen Martin, for an all day meeting. A delicious dinner was served by the hostess. All necessary business was disposed of and time given to needlework, as the Union has orders for work to be done before Christmas.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Greenleaf gave their father, P. C. Greenleaf, a surprise party last Wednesday evening, Oct. 17, in honor of his birthday. About forty neighbors and friends were present. Mr. Greenleaf's sons were all present but Francis, of Lewiston, who was unable to be present, but sent a letter which was read by request to the company. There were seven grandchildren present. Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Allan Peabody (Rowena Greenleaf) and Avis Greenleaf of Lewiston. Music and singing were enjoyed. Refreshments and lemonade were served. Waiters were the three youngest grandchildren of the honored guest, Misses Avis and Harriet, and Hartley Greenleaf, Jr. Mr. Greenleaf received gifts and cards and an excellent birthday cake ornamented with 70 lighted candles. A very pleasant evening was passed and the time came too soon to extend best wishes and say good night.

Miss Marie Butler was given a surprise party last Tuesday night, Oct. 16, in honor of her tenth birthday. Many young, as well as older ones, passed a very pleasant evening with games, music and dancing. Miss Marie was the recipient of gifts and money. Refreshments were served.

Ernest Greenleaf, Horatio Peaco and William Smith helped Hartley Greenleaf dig potatoes last Saturday.

Mrs. Beatrice Edwards gave her daughter, Iva, a surprise party, Thursday, Oct. 18, it being her tenth birthday, there were twenty-six present; the children enjoyed playing games and music on the organ. Refreshments were served, consisting of ice cream and cake and fancy cookies, also a nice birthday cake with ten candles. All had a lovely time wishing her many more happy birthdays.

Mrs. Nellie Martin gave her daughter, Mrs. Lillian Peaco, a surprise party, at her home, Saturday evening, Oct. 21st. There were twenty-one neighbors and friends present. Mrs. Martin had each auto parked in the back yard and as Mrs. Peaco arrived to spend the evening early her mother took her auto and they went down to see Mrs. Ola Lamb. On her return, the guests had arrived and were sitting in the parlor which was not lighted. Mrs. Peaco was sent into the room to get her birthday present, which was a lovely piece of silk dress goods, and in pulling the lights, was almost overcome by seeing all the friends. There was card playing and also a trick with the cards was demonstrated by Mrs. Martin. Refreshments were served, consisting of coffee, sandwiches, cake, fancy cookies and a large birthday cake with lighted candles was presented to her by little Jacqueline Hirst and Bettie Farrar. Also an exciting time when two young misses locked themselves in a room while arranging their toilet. All enjoyed the evening.

Mrs. Anna Kemp, Silas Scribner, and Mrs. Marjorie Greenleaf motored to Athens, Sunday. Mrs. Kemp's mother came back with her and is going to spend the winter.

OXFORD

Oxford 4-H Girls Hold a Model Business Session

The Busy Bees Sewing Club of Oxford has the real 4-H spirit. They hold their meetings every Saturday and they certainly put on a very good meeting. State leaders have said that they hold one of the best business sessions in the state.

The club met Saturday, October 20, and held a very interesting meeting. The program of work for the year was planned and the afternoon was spent with instructions on making buttonholes by the County Club Agent, Miss Plummer. A social hour was enjoyed after delicious refreshments were served by the local leader.

Heard and Seen at Advertiser Office

Merton Wyman: "I'm getting about a half of the usual crop of apples. Will have probably about 400 barrels. They go to the canning factory."

Judge Jones: "I've climbed 13 mountains this season and now going strong."

F. P. Stone, the druggist, called in Friday morning and presented the local editor with a beautiful pink rosebud of a choice variety. Mr. Stone says that several local ladies have vowed to get the better of him this year in respect to rose culture, but it seems a hard proposition. Mr. Stone has had roses in his home every day since June 15, and the bushes are still going strong and loaded with buds. We have noticed beautiful roses many times in Mr. Stone's store during the past summer, as well as many other varieties of flowers.

Lillian Jacobson was in Monday and placed an ad in the Intelligence Column for housework to do. She says she hopes that the ad will bring some inquiries.

Malcolm Gregg: "I'm selling out the stock at the Andover Farm. Closing it all out except a flock of hens. Have got a man to care for them and the building this winter."

Gene Lane of Berlin, N. H., called Monday. He was on his way to the Squire's Old Farm on Upton Ridge. He is to take some pictures of the place.

Mr. Field, inspector of shoes for the Norway Shoe Co., visited his home in Danville over the week end. He brings us a sample of his everbearing raspberries. They are red and rosy, plump and fat.

The boys tell a story about a recent sparring match at Ashton's drug store in which Perley May, the sociable clerk, made a personal contact with Lester Ashton's elbow. The punch raised a goose egg over Perley's left eye and a galoxy of stars along his mental horizon. This rough stuff was accidental during the course of a practical joke which miscarried, leaving Perley the goat.

Mrs. Hazel Demeritt, North Waterford, called Saturday afternoon to tell us how forgetful people are. A woman bought a hat from a milliner in the Grange Hall during the World's Fair and left it to be called for later in the day. The hat remains unclaimed but on the wrapper is the name "Mrs. Batchelder" without address. This may stir the memory of the owner. In miscellaneous department of the Intelligence Column tells where the hat may be procured.

"Gone to Gilead hunting." That is what Wm. C. Leavitt said the other morning of his store help. "Young Bill and Huff have gone. They must get a deer, or at least try to. Dr. F. A. Hayden went with Bill. I don't know who Huff took with him. Maybe they will get shot. Hope not."

Mrs. C. A. Flint was in Tuesday for her butter paper. She says they average well toward 40 pounds a week and hope, later, to be able to keep a dozen purebred cows and make more butter. She also said it had been a hard year on the farm, the apple trees were filled with blossoms but the crop was very light.

"Here are some items from Pigeon Hill and Welchville," was Mrs. C. S. Hunting's cheerful salutation as she entered the office, Tuesday. Of course we were glad to receive them and shall expect some every week from that source. Crisp items from any locality in Oxford County hit our subscribers scattered from coast to coast and from the gulf to the boundary of the "Promised Land."

Wilfully tipping over headstones in a cemetery is serious business. Harry E. Lovejoy, caretaker of Rustfield Cemetery, reports that eight headstones were turned over sometime between Saturday afternoon and Monday morning. This is not the work of the wind or other natural causes, but appearances point strongly to the human element. Clues are being run down which may result in trouble for the guilty persons.

Thanksgiving Day is Thursday, Nov. 29. Don't forget it!

Mrs. Bertha Lovejoy, 6 Cummings Place, would like to take mealers, and also has a room to let. She has placed an ad in the Intelligence Column.

Prince Steward of the back office force enjoyed an auto ride Friday evening, with members of his family and while up on the West Paris road, was obliged to bring his car almost to a standstill to allow a deer to cross the road. Needless to say, the Sanborn boys, who were in the party, were much excited over this event, and expressed their opinion of hunters who have the heart to pursue and kill these graceful creatures.

Judge Wm. F. Jones appeared before Judge Dunn at the Supreme Court, as attorney for Mrs. Abby J. Tubbs, who was indicted for "violating health order." The court told her in a pleasant way she must obey the health officers' orders and go and sin no more.

Maxine Richardson and Iva Yates brought us some pussy willows they picked Wednesday afternoon on Elm St.

We have plenty of small pads in two grades of paper, 15c and 25c per pound.

A DEER, FOX AND LAW

Ernest Hutchins and Herbert Butler have returned from a hunting trip to Black Pond, above and beyond Chesuncook, Maine. It is the same place they hunted in last year. They got a deer and had an adventure with the law.

Herbert Butler shot a fox, not aware it was contrary to the rules and regulations. He squared himself before Judge Hayes of Dover-Foxcroft, who remitted the fine and let him off easily with payment of cost.

It was a case of not knowing.

Before You Invest Investigate

According to Government authorities, about a billion dollars are lost to Americans each year through the purchase of "gold bricks" and other worthless investments—purchases made from unknown persons or without adequate information.

If you would avoid unnecessary risks with your own heard-earned money, be sure that those upon whom you rely possess honesty of purpose as well as ability to judge the merits of an investment.

This bank is anxious to help its depositors make sound investments. Through our arrangements with several of America's leading investment houses, we can offer you a broad choice of bonds and other securities yielding a liberal income.

Come in and talk with us when you have surplus funds to invest.

W. C. T. U. Meeting—Surprise Parties.

The W. C. T. U. met last Thursday, Oct. 18, with the presidnet, Mrs. Helen Martin, for an all day meeting. A delicious dinner was served by the hostess. All necessary business was disposed of and time given to needlework, as the Union has orders for work to be done before Christmas.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Greenleaf gave their father, P. C. Greenleaf, a surprise party last Wednesday evening, Oct. 17, in honor of his birthday. About forty neighbors and friends were present. Mr. Greenleaf's sons were all present but Francis, of Lewiston, who was unable to be present, but sent a letter which was read by request to the company. There were seven grandchildren present. Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Allan Peabody (Rowena Greenleaf) and Avis Greenleaf of Lewiston. Music and singing were enjoyed. Refreshments and lemonade were served. Waiters were the three youngest grandchildren of the honored guest, Misses Avis and Harriet, and Hartley Greenleaf, Jr. Mr. Greenleaf received gifts and cards and an excellent birthday cake ornamented with 70 lighted candles. A very pleasant evening was passed and the time came too soon to extend best wishes and say good-night.

Miss Marie Butler was given a surprise party last Tuesday night, Oct. 16, in honor of her tenth birthday. Many young, as well as older ones, passed a very pleasant evening with games, music and dancing. Miss Marie was the recipient of gifts and money. Refreshments were served.

Ernest Greenleaf, Horatio Peaco and William Smith helped Hartley Greenleaf dig potatoes last Saturday.

Mrs. Beatrice Edwards gave her daughter, Iva, a surprise party, Thursday, Oct. 18, it being her tenth birthday, there were twenty-six present; the children enjoyed playing games and music on the organ. Refreshments were served, consisting of ice cream and cake and fancy cookies, also a nice birthday cake with ten candles. All had a lovely time wishing her many more happy birthdays.

Mrs. Nellie Martin gave her daughter, Mrs. Lillian Peaco, a surprise party, at her home, Saturday evening, Oct. 21st. There were twenty-one neighbors and friends present. Mrs. Martin had each auto parked in the back yard and as Mrs. Peaco arrived to spend the evening early her mother took her auto and they went down to see Mrs. Ola Lamb. On her return, the guests had arrived and were sitting in the parlor which was not lighted. Mrs. Peaco was sent into the room to get her birthday present, which was a lovely piece of silk dress goods, and in pulling the lights, was almost overcome by seeing all the friends. There was card playing and also a trick with the cards was demonstrated by Mrs. Martin. Refreshments were served, consisting of coffee, sandwiches, cake, fancy cookies, also a large birthday cake with lighted candles was presented to her by little Jacqueline Hirst and Bettie Farrar. Also an exciting time when two young misses locked themselves in a room while arranging their toilet. All enjoyed the evening.

Mrs. Anna Kemp, Silas Scribner, and Mrs. Marjorie Greenleaf motored to Athens, Sunday. Mrs. Kemp's mother came back with her and is going to spend the winter.

OXFORD

Oxford 4-H Girls Hold a Model Business Session

The Busy Bees Sewing Club of Oxford has the real 4-H spirit. They hold their meetings every Saturday and they certainly put on a very good meeting. State leaders have said that they hold one of the best business sessions in the state.

The club met Saturday, October 20, and held a very interesting meeting. The program of work for the year was planned and the afternoon was spent with instructions on making buttonholes by the County Club Agent, Miss Plummer. A social hour was enjoyed after delicious refreshments were served by the local leader.

Frank H. Beck is gathering his gladiola bulbs. He has from 22 to 24 thousand.

Mrs. Hazel Conary and her two children, with Mrs. Charles Bartlett, are visiting friends at Millinocket this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Rowe of Woodfords went around the mountains last Sunday. They took with them Mrs. Rowe's father, Tom Thibodeau, also Tessa, the teacher. They went through Crawford Notch, on to Bethlehem, Lancaster, Whitefield, Gorham, N. H., to Norway. Distance 211 miles.

Chandler's Musical Aces of Rumford will play for a Hallowe'en dance at Legion Hall, Tuesday evening, Oct. 30. Both old and new dances with plenty of snap and novelties are promised. Dave McLeod, the well known jazz singer, will be there to entertain. The orchestra is conducted by Francis "Baffles" Chandler formerly of Ward 8, in Norway.

John A. Woodman and wife thought of going to Andover last Sunday. He had so planned, but Mrs. Woodman had a different arrangement. Her nieces were to be in their summer cottage at East Stoneham on that day. They visited them instead of the Milton House, Andover. Those present: Allie L. Buck and wife of Lancaster, N. H.; Leslie N. Wood, wife and two children, with Dick Trask and wife of Auburn, and Will Channell of Magog, P. Q.

IMPROPER USE OF THE FLAG

Many patriotic citizens deplore the use of the national flag for purposes not in accord with the regulations and proper usage.

One example of misuse was at the motorboat races near Norway Lake Village when flags bearing the stars and stripes were attached to floats for markers along the course. While that was not a serious breach of flag etiquette, the act of leaving them for months exposed to the weather, tossed about by the waves and neglected, is pointed out as unnecessary.

There is no charge of wilful disrespect, only thoughtlessness. The question has been raised, Why use the stars and stripes for this and similar purposes when other banners will answer the purpose in every respect?

Loyalty to country and the desire to display its most inspiring insignia is commendable and appreciated, so hereafter, let all give the national emblem the honor and dignity it deserves, ever keeping it above the commonplace.

Sam Crowther writes a book. Doubleday, Doran & Co., are publishers. They are located in Garden City, N. Y. The book is called "The Presidency vs. Hoover" and he makes out the latter is some fellow. Especially fitted to live in the White House. Will do business on the level with foreigners and prohibition. Prosperity will glow and peach trees blossom all over the United States! Should he get there, which he will. That is settled.

Net price of book is $2.50. We have a copy. Will loan it to the poor and unfortunate. Call at Printing Office Square.

Capt. Herbert F. Sands, the Advertiser's Reviewer of Current Literature, refuses to read it and report. Remember the price, $2.50 net. Add ten cents for postage.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis J. Brooks were given a surprise, one evening recently, when a group of friends arrived at their home on Danforth Street. The affair was in appreciation of the many pleasures Mr. and Mrs. Brooks had given them in pleasant auto trips this summer. They presented the hosts with an auto robe. The evening was passed pleasantly with auction, and the guests, who carried their refreshments with them, served sherbet and cake. In the party were Miss Della M. Noyes, Miss Edith M. Smith, Miss Gertrude O. Gardner, Miss Helen Swan, Mrs. Mary Cole and Joe Therrian.

HUNT'S CORNER AND VICINITY

Church Notes—Grange Activities.

A number of pleasant events have occurred in Albany recently. One was Sunday, October 14th. when Mrs. Ives opened our Sunday morning service and gave us a sermon which always inspires for living better lives. The children's Sunday School also had a part in the service, under the supervision of Rev. B. F. Wentworth, who has taught them many hymns, both old and new. One of the interesting things they did was each to make a note book using mostly Bible pictures and writing the story underneath.

The next event was the Circle, which was entertained by Hugh Little, Irving Beckler, E. O. Donahue, L. J. Andrews, Harlan Bumpus, Roy Wardwell, Hugh Stearns and Charles Andrews. As a large number was expected it was held in Grange Hall, as more can be seated in the dining room than in the Church vestry. To be sure we were sorry that Thursday evening was such a dark rainy evening but we did not lose courage and from past experiences we knew our old friends from Norway, Bryant's Pond, Bethel and Waterford did not mind weather much either, which was also proved by their attendance. The hosts all took their turn at stirring the Oysters, although I believe that Hugh Little was chef but certainly the eight cooks "did not spoil the broth" as all agreed that it was an excellent oyster stew. Coffee, beans and cake was also served. The program was as follows:

Music .....Hazel Wardwell, Cecil Kimball
Reading.....Miss Mary Pride
Solo .....Roy Wardwell
Music.....Hazel Wardwell, Cecil Kimball
Solo .....Mr. Bull
Solo .....Hugh Little
Reading and Talk.....Mr. Bull
Music .....Hazel Wardwell, Cecil Kimball

The Circle voted to send Greetings and a word of good cheer to Rev. David Burnham of North Andover, Mass., who has been having a tedious time with his hip and leg which was injured by a fall some time ago. We are glad to hear that he is now on the gain. Mr. Burnham has always shown his interest in Albany by many a kindly deed.

Saturday, October 20th. the memebrs of Round Mountain Grange met at their hall for an all day meeting. The morning was spent in cleaning the hall and other necessary work. While working, we were busily planning for a big event, namely a fair to be held Oct. 31st., afternoon and evening. A fancy table a variety table an apron table, also candy table and a fish pond, with fish that bite quickly, warranted. A harvest supper will be served, meaning a good old-fashioned boiled dinner with plenty of pumpkin pies and Indian pudding and other good eatables that one may really dream of old time witches. Master Leon Kimball called the meeting to order, after the regular routine of business, the following program was given:

Song .....Grange
Roll Call with a connundrum from each.....
Reading .....Mrs. Bruce
Song .....Mrs. Frances Wardwell
Reading.....Mrs. Nancy Andrews
The question is: What is being done to develop the resources of the community and who is doing the work? Was well discussed and some interesting points brought out.
Reading .....Mrs. Ruth Kimball
Music .....Hazel Wardwell

It was voted that we buy roofing for our hall and have it put on as soon as possible. L. J. Andrews will put in our fire escape Monday. Then we have a dream of new shades and new paint for the future for our hall. The witches may help about it, Hallowe'en. There may be a limit to space in the Advertiser, if so our good editor need not add that we had a jolly good dinner. We were glad to have Mr. Jameson of Presque Isle and Bro. George Cummings of Norway with us for the day. Oh, Yes, farmers do have a good time occasionally.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Robertson and family have been spending a few days at their place here.

Mrs. Harry M. Spring and Mrs. Nesbit Woods of West Roxbury were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Abel Andrews, Monday.

When Banker Silas Burnham Gave Strokes to Charles ("Chick") Evans.

Interesting Anecdotes of a Former Norway Man

We recently received a letter from Harry R. Virgin, lawyer of Portland as follows:

"I enclose a leaf torn from The Central Western Banker magazine of Omaha containing a sketch relating to Silas H. Burnham, a Norway boy, which may interest you. As I recall it, he used to live with his family on what was later called the Benjamin Tucker farm up near Norway Lake. He and Herman Horne went to Dartmouth College together, but Herman did not finish the course. They were very warm friends as long as Herman lived. He was a son of Sumner Burnham, if I recall the father's name aright, who was one of the leading citizens of Norway and vicinity.

Silas was short-stop on the old Pennesseewassee Ball Club at the time they won the silver ball in the State Championship. His brother, Sumner, Jr., was catcher. It may interest you to know that the silver ball which was held by the Pennesseewassees for some time and finally won by the Eons of Portland is now in the possession of James Hopkins Smith, of Portland and New York, who was a member of the Eon Team."

Following is the article referred to:

"One can travel the width and breadth of the land for years without discovering a more delightful, or more interesting personality than S. H. Burnham, veteran chairman of the board of the First National Bank of Lincoln, Nebraska. A dean of the banking world and business counsellor for all, Mr. Burnham is demonstrating how a young man of eighty years can find the whole world a place for peace, prosperity and happiness.

"Speaking of his eighty years, Mr. Burnham says he fooled the world a bit for a while, many of his friends not realizing he was nearing eighty. Recently when his eightieth birthday rolled around, an enterprising Lincoln editor commented editorily upon it, and as a consequence, the bank lobby was overflowing that morning with well wishers bearing good wishes, flowers and gifts to the "young man of eighty." It was almost overwhelming, says Mr. Burnham.

"Mr. Burnham has, until recently, been an ardent devotee of golf. "One reason I'm so young," he says. (He also likes bridge and is said to play it in a way that would please even Mr. Work.) He admits he was the first real golfer in Lincoln, at a time when no one knew a brassie from a mashie. He heard about golf first in Chicago, around 1890, when he accompanied two or three bankers there on a round. "The minute I saw them hit the first ball, I became a golf fan," he says.

"He returned to Lincoln and immediately interested two or three friends in the game. Most people thought them crazy to chase a little white ball around the pasture, but they finally found a place for a nine hole course and began the game in earnest. "We played then for five dollars a year. Now the golfer must spend a hundred times that to play the game on a private course," he says.

"Mum hearts" is the title of Mr. Burnham's favorite anecdote and could easily be converted into a screen comedy. Although possibly known to many Nebraska bankers, it is easily worth retelling here.

"One of his early close friends was a Mr. Haskell, Beatrice creamery man, (now deceased,) who was a great practical joker. Both Mr. Burnham and Mr. Haskell were fond of card games, and at a friendly gathering one time, Mr. Haskell asked Mr. Burnham if he had ever played "mum hearts." The banker said, "no," but opined that he could play most any game that any one else could play.

The fun began. Mr. Haskell and two or three "confederates," with Mr. Burnham in their midst, began the game. It was explained that after the first play, the first man who said a word would forfeit five dollars or a word would forfeit $5 or so. Also, if any one man took thirteen hearts, he would forfeit the same amount. The cards were dealt around, and Mr. Burnham, as the guest, was "permitted" to play first. Scenting a "nigger in the wood pile" he led the ace of clubs, expecting the rest to follow suit. Instead, every player, including Mr. Haskell, threw on a heart. Unable to complain by word of mouth on their general "reneging" Mr. Burnham continued to lead and consequently received every heart and lost his forfeit.

The story of "mum hearts" with Mr. Burnham as the entertaining "sucker" was widely circulated among their friends by Mr. Haskell, the practical joker. The banker finally saw a chance to get back in a golf match. A foursome had been arranged, with Mr. Haskell as a spectator. A "blind" wager had been arranged, with each man putting up a few dollars by picking the winner, writing his name on a piece of paper and folding it so that no player knew who the other player had chosen as "low man."

The morning preceding the afternoon of the game, a Mr. Hill, friend of Mr. Burnham, an excellent amateur from Chicago, dropped into the bank. Recalling "mum hearts" Mr. Burnham told of his plans for the game, invited him in on it, at the same time telling Haskell and the players that Mr. Hill was just an ordinary "dub," but a good fellow.

The game was begun, Mr. Burnham secretly choosing Hill as the winner, the others including Haskell, ignoring him After "dubbing" the first few holes, Hill began shooting par golf, and seemed sure to win. About that time, Mr. Burnham asked Haskell if he recalled "mum hearts" and the fun began with Mr. Burnham doing most of the laughing.

"The third and concluding episode of the "mum hearts" joke, was engineered by Mr. Haskell, who was out for revenge on Banker Burnham. A few months later, Haskell dropped in the bank, to tell Mr. Burnham his nephew from the east, a nice young lad, was about to make him a visit and that he would like to have Mr. Burnham meet him and possibly play golf with him. "Sure," says Mr. Burnham, "glad to meet the young chap. What sort of a golf game does he shoot?" "Oh, just fair," says Mr. Haskell, who was not a golf player. "You can give him several strokes and still beat him."

"The "nephew" arrived and was introduced to Mr. Burnham as young Evans. Scenting no dirty work, Mr. Burnham accompanied the lad and Mr. Haskell to the golf course, there to be met by other members of the foursome, and the game began, after Mr. Burnham had arranged to give Evans several strokes.

"The young man played badly on the first few holes, then began suddenly to lay out drives of nearly three hundred yards, and cutting down Mr. Burnham's lead. Also, a gallery of grinning spectators, summoned by the enterprising Mr. Haskell, began to follow the match, much to the discomfiture of Mr. Burnham, who scented a "double crossing."

"To climax the story, Mr. Haskell began muttering something about "hearts" and at the end of the game, with Mr. Burnham badly snowed under by Mr. Evans, he was boisterously informed that his youthful opponent was none other than "Chick" Evans, noted Chicago golfer, imported for the occasion by Mr. Haskell, as Mr. Burnham's opponent. (This is one of the favorite stories told by "Chick" Evans, who is now one of Mr. Burnham's great friends.)

"Not all of Mr. Burnham's life has been golf and practical jokes. Banking is his life work. He started the American Exchange bank in Lincoln in 1888, forty years ago. "At the time I didn't know a single thing about banking but had plenty of confidence that I could learn," he says. So he hired a young chap named Wing to keep his books. The "young chap" is now E. G. Wing, president of the First National Bank of Boston.

Almost fifty years in Nebraska and in Lincoln, Mr. Burnham has seen many changes take place in the life of the state and city. He was born in Maine, and became a practicing attorney, before turning to banking. Incidentally, he urges every young man to study some law, advising it particularly for the banker.

Confidence—confidence in your ability and confidence of others as to your ability, are stressed by Mr. Burnham, as the stepping stones to successful banking. "Know yourself and your customers and make them know you—that is the secret of intelligent banking," he says. Speaking more in detail on this subject, he says the customer, even though he is not a borrower, should submit to his banker an occasional statement, so that the banker may know him and be ready to loan intelligently if the occasion arises.

OXFORD COUNTY CENTENNARIAN DEAD

Tillotison Wing, of West Peru, who was 100 years, 1 month and 1 day old, passed away Saturday morning at 6 o'clock at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Herbert Wood, of West Peru, where he had been tenderly cared for in his declining years.

Mr. Wing had been in his usual health until about four weeks ago when he was taken ill from bronchitis. He leaves three daughters, Mrs. Wood, with whom he lived; Mrs. Ida Frost, Rumford, and Mrs. Kincaid, Livermore Falls, and several grandchildren and great grandchildren.

Chain Stores—City vs. Town

(Communication)

By Edward S. Paret

The Norway Advertiser:— It was with much pleasure I read your articles in the last two editions appealing to your citizens to pull together for Norway. The article, "Community Confidence is a Valued Asset," is especially good.

I appreciate that a newspaper is supposed to be what it's name implies, viz: a sheet to carry "news," but I often find editors in the same boat as the man who advertises and who insist upon writing his own copy. Each is so close to his job that it is next to impossible to get the outside viewpoint.

If editors could only realize how easy it is to mould public opinion, and how dependent many people are upon the newspapers for practically their entire share of knowledge, I feel sure stronger attempts would be made by editors to build their communities into better positions. Efforts are constantly made by the great metropolitan press to place policies upon a higher plane and even though their editorials or news items may be biased, they do have the effect of bringing to the public a better knowledge of what a right thinking citizen should do in order to help his city, state or country.

In connection with the article, "Community Confidence," you have brought to my mind a question which I am sometimes asked by manufacturers for whom I write advertising, and that is, how do the people in small towns view the innovation of the chain stores. I am obliged to tell these men, I do not know only through surface indication, and that is that they seem to be well patronized. But what is really in the back of the heads of the people who do patronize them I don't know. So I am going to ask the question. Before I start I know I will be subjected to a lot of adverse criticism, but it seems to be the only way to obtain actual knowledge.

In a large city the chain stores seem to be an economical factor in the lives of many. The chain stores have their warehouses in these cities, they pay freight to the railroads and in a large measure simply take the place of the jobber. They employ as many if not more people than the jobber, employ more trucks and really spend more money, so in the end the gain comes in increase in deposits in banks, better buying and through this better selling, because the selling is taught by a corp of trained overseers. The people who patronize these stores live within a radius of a few blocks, so the carrying of the things entails but little inconvenience.

Now in the small town where chain stores operate, I have often wondered if they had a right to exist, and I base my wonder on the following premises, at First, they do not buy a dollars worth of goods in your town, unless they deal in green goods also, which in some instances they buy from the local farmer. All their goods are bought in the big cities. This shuts out the salesman and the hotel loses—next, what money they take in is not kept in the town bank, but is drawn upon almost immediately by the head office. The goods they handle do not come through by freight, thus giving your railroad upon which you must depend, any revenue. Their goods come on trucks over highways for which your citizens pay steep taxes for their maintenance, the trucks paying no just proportion of the tax, whereas the railroads are taxed in increasing amount to help defray the State taxes and today the building and upkeep of roads is the heaviest single item. The only money remaining in the town is the rent for the store and the wages to the employees, outside of this there is nothing on which the town can build. Now as to advantages—quality for quality, there is a saving of about 5 per cent in dealing at a chain store, but when one analyzes this supposed saving, is it a saving?

I assume your chain stores operate as they do in other towns, viz, do not deliver. This item of delivery alone is frequently worth and costs more than the 5 per cent. Again, the Chain Stores do not trust, but all sales are spot cash. This eliminates expense that the other stores are subjected to. But the item of credit is very vital in some families—illness perhaps has overtaken the bread-winner and a friendly hand is needed to tide over until he can get back on his feet. This friendly hand he cannot obtain at the chain store, unless the manager is willing to personally assume the debt.

As to the building of better citizens, if the manager of a chain store makes out particularly well, becomes popular and shows a real ability, he is taken from your town and given a position in a larger town, so you gain nothing.

Perhaps my reasoning is all wrong, but to me, upon a full analysis of the subject it does look as if a town really loses when its citizens leave their own town folks store, their own people who help to make and sustain the town and deal with stores that stand for one thing only and that is dividends to stockholders in the large cities.

Naturally there is much more to be said, but I think I have said enough to start an argument. I certainly would like to know the reaction of your folks.

Aid to Industrial Expansion In Maine

Efforts of the New England Public Service Company to launch a definite program for industrial expansion in Maine and other sections of New England in which it operates are reflected in the announcement recently by President Wyman of that Company that it has appointed W. Gerald Holmes, an industrial engineer, to its personnel. Mr. Holmes will make his headquarters at Augusta, the appointment becoming effective at once.

With the Central Maine Power Company and the Cumberland County Power and Light Company, both subsidiaries of the New England Public Service Company, advantageously located near large undeveloped water power sites, and with the proposed Bingham development ready in 1931 it is expected that Maine will receive a large share of this Company's activities to secure new industries.

Mr. Holmes, who will direct this work, is a graduate of Colgate University where he specialized in engineering, economics and business administration. After teaching for a year, he became associated with the faculty and Bureau of Business Research at Indiana University making special investigation of industries. Following this, he became head of the Industrial Department of the Indianapolis Chamber of Commerce, then industrial agent for the Interstate Public Service Company and the Kentucky Utilities Company and more recently he was manager of the Industrial Development Department of the National Electric Power Company. He is the author of various articles on industrial plant location and community industrial development and his latest book "Plant Location" is now in the process of preparation.

In adding an Industrial Development Department to its work, the New England Public Service Company plans to dovetail the work of this department with the various chambers of commerce, civic clubs and other organizations now engaged in bringing ned industries to Maine and Mr. Holmes' services will be available to such organizations.

Some get sore over trifles. When they get their back up, they usually do some queer things. It is amusing sometimes to see how simple one may act if he cannot have his own way.

Chain Stores—City vs. Town

(Communication)

By Edward S. Paret

The Norway Advertiser:— It was with much pleasure I read your articles in the last two editions appealing to your citizens to pull together for Norway. The article, "Community Confidence is a Valued Asset," is especially good.

I appreciate that a newspaper is supposed to be what it's name implies, viz: a sheet to carry "news," but I often find editors in the same boat as the man who advertises and who insist upon writing his own copy. Each is so close to his job that it is next to impossible to get the outside viewpoint.

If editors could only realize how easy it is to mould public opinion, and how dependent many people are upon the newspapers for practically their entire share of knowledge, I feel sure stronger attempts would be made by editors to build their communities into better positions. Efforts are constantly made by the great metropolitan press to place policies upon a higher plane and even though their editorials or news items may be biased, they do have the effect of bringing to the public a better knowledge of what the right thinking citizen should do in order to help his city, state or country.

In connection with the article, "Community Confidence," you have brought to my mind a question which I am sometimes asked by manufacturers for whom I write advertising, and that is, how do the people in small towns view the innovation of the chain stores. I am obliged to tell these men, I do not know only through surface indication, and that is that they seem to be well patronized. But what is really in the back of the heads of the people who do patronize them I don't know. So I am going to ask the question. Before I start I know I will be subjected to a lot of adverse criticism, but it seems to be the only way to obtain actual knowledge.

The chain stores have their warehouses in these cities, they pay freight to the railroads and in a large measure simply take the place of the jobber. They employ as many if not more people than the jobber, employ more clerks and really spend more money, so in the end the gain comes in increase in banks, better buying and better selling, because the clerks are taught by a corp of trained buyers. The people who patronize these stores live within a radius of a few blocks, so the carrying of the things home is a little inconvenience.

But the small town where chain stores operate, I have often wondered if they had a right to exist, and I base my opinion on the following premises. People do not buy a dollars worth of goods in their own town, unless they deal in produce also, which in some instances they buy from the local farmer. All other goods are bought in the big cities. The clerks cut the salesman and the manager, what money they take in is kept in the town bank, but is sent out almost immediately by the home office. The goods they handle do not come through by freight, thus giving no railroad upon which you must depend any revenue. HARRISON—SCRIBNER'S MILLS

Grover Family Reunion—Iva Holden Ill.

A family reunion was held at the home of Frank Grover at East Stoneham, recently. A family gathering of thirty-eight. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Grover and two children, Ada and Woodrow, of Welchville. Mr. and Mrs. Alton Grover and son, Roland, of Oxford, Mrs. P. E. Culbert and four children, Mary, Leotine, Billy, and Pearle, of Oxford, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Dadman and two sons, Lawrence and Ossie, of Stoneham village. Mr. and Mrs. Errol Barker and son, Milton, of Stoneham, Mrs. Wm. Day and four children, Norton, Doris, William Jr., and Norman and Miss Kathryn Day of Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. J. Harry Millett and two children, Doris and Frances, Mr. Millett's hired man, William Poole, all of Millettville, Norway, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Culbert and daughter Marion, Mrs. Culbert's mother, Mrs. Dana Hamlin, all of Otisfield.

Lubelle Darling recently spent a week at Brunswick and Cundy's Harbor.

Ray Allen and family of North Bridgton were calling on friends at Otisfield and Harrison, Sunday, October 14.

Jason Scribner of Bolster's Mills called at Mrs. Lubelle Darling's, Monday, Oct. 15.

Iva Holden had an ill turn, recently. Mrs. Holden has been in bed over three months now. All her friends are in hopes to see her about again soon.

Lyman Shedd, who has been sick for some time, is a little better.

BRIDGTON

Mrs. Myrtie Pendexter and daughter, Doris, have been enjoying a vacation of a week recently which they spent visiting relatives.

Mrs. Edith Evans has been working in the office at the Wales and Hamblen store, during the absence of Miss Doris Pendexter.

Rev. W. H. Gilpatrick of Old Orchard preached at the Congregational Church, Sunday morning, Oct. 14th. At the Methodist Church, Sunday evening, there was an address by a returned missionary.

Miss Lulu Gilman, of Denmark began employment October 15th in the Bridgton Branch of the Casco Mercantile Trust Company. She has been employed for a few weeks at the Central Maine Power Company's office.

The movies which have been conducted for the summer months at the Town Hall have closed on account of no adequate heating system in the auditorium. Leon Crosby has managed the movies which have been well patronized for the first season.

Mr. Hume of Jackson, N. H., has been visiting his daughter, Fannie H. Miner at her home on Portland Street.

Mrs. Haney, who has been spending the summer months with Mary Clark at her home on Lower Main street, is now located at the Walker home on Church street.

Mrs. Andrews of Monmouth is with her son, Harold Andrews, principal of the high school., at the Moulton house on Fowler street.

NORTH BRIDGTON

The Woman's Club of North Bridgton were entertained by their treasurer, Mrs. Emma Hill, at an outing at the Hill Camp at Harrison. An all day session was held Friday, October 19. A delicious dinner was served on the porch. It consisted of oyster stew, cakes, pies and coffee. Mrs. Hill, who is always a charming hostess, saw to the comfort of everyone, with the addition of a log fire in the big stone fireplace. Decorations of Autumn foliage were much admired. A very happy day to tuck away in memories attic. Those present were: President Ada York, Secretary Marjorie Chadbourn, Treasurer Emma Hill, Kate Cushman, Julia Chadbourn, Ella Gray, Clara Mayberry, Lilla Marr, Alice Marsh, Annie Smith. Alice Wilbur, Charlotte Luck, Elizabeth Marsh, Dorothy Sampson, Winnie Curtis, Master Lufkin Sampson, Master Richard Chadbourne.

ADVICE TO NEW VOTERS

No! A cross on the ballot does not stand for a kiss. There is nothing immodest in marking your ballot in this manner.

A "straight party ticket" merely means that you make one mark for the party of your choice. The idea is not that the adjective "straight" is used in any moral sense.

Lady voters leaving the booth need not accept a cigar when proffered. Merely smile, say "I thank you" and leave.

If you find a piece of red crayon in the booth to which you have been directed, slip into another booth and use the usual black crayon.

SOUTH WATERFORD

Mr. and Mrs. Fox in Town—Grange Notes—Monroes Returned Home—Kingmans Entertained—Community Club Supper.

Bear Mountain Grange No. 62 held a regular meeting on the evening of Oct. 20. The committee on the literary programme was as follows: Nellie Stone, Osro Decker, Eugene Kilgore, Mr. and Mrs. Pearl G. Bradbury. All the ladies brought box lunches which were auctioneered off. Coffee was served in the dining hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Brackett and Mr. and Mrs. Carter of West Medford, Mass., spent a few days recently with Mrs. Brackett's brother, Charles Nelson.

Elmer Staples of Kennebunk spent the week-end recently with his daughter, Mrs. Ben Collins.

A Hallowe'en program was presented in Bear Mountain Grange on Saturday evening. A box supper social followed. Mrs. Nellie W. Stone and Mrs. Annie Bradbury were the head of this committee.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hammond and son, Donald of Montclair, N. J., spent the week-end recently with his mother, Mrs. Jennie Hammond and his uncles, Henry S., and Fred Haynes. The Hammond's were to leave for home on Oct. 15th but their starting was delayed a few days by the illness of Mrs. Hammond.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Collins and children spent the first week after the fire with Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hamlin. Now they have moved to the home of Mrs. M. Etta Watson for the winter.

Frank A. Monroe and daughter, Louise of Melrose, Mass., were in town over Sunday, Oct. 14th. They motored here to bring his mother and sister, Mrs. A. A. Monroe and Ethel home after their visit in Massachusetts. The Monroe's were both ill with bad colds and Ethel had a bad attack while away and is still suffering from the attack. They enjoyed a good rest, but were not able to go about only for a visit to the other son, W. S. Monroe, on his farm in Westford, Mass.

Several from the village attended the last All-Parish service at East Stoneham on Sunday evening, Oct.14th. and heard the Williston church choir.Mrs. Hidla Ives was the speaker of the evening. It was a fine meeting, full of inspiration. The church was full to seating capacity.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur F. Kingman entertained Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Kilgore and family at dinner on Sunday, Oct.14, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Holden, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Monk, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Merof South Paris and Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Cummings of Auburn were supper guests on the same day. That was an honest-to-goodness house party and a jolly one, too.

Miss Louise Moulton of Bridgton was a guest of her niece, Mrs. Albert Hamlin, on Sunday, October 14th.

Wednesday night Oct. 10th. the Community Club had the second supper with Mrs. Ardelle Kimball and Mrs. Marjorie Kingman in charge. It was indeed a fine supper and was served to a very large crowd. The picture "The Mysterious Rider" by Zane Grey, was greatly enjoyed by all. The proceeds of the supper were given to the Collins, also they were given a donation of foodstuffs and household goods, which was greatly appreciated by Mr. and Mrs. Collins.

Rev. W. I. Bull conducted the morning service at the church, Oct. 14th. The hour for worship will not be changed until the next Council Meeting in November, so the hour is at 9:30.

Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Floyd are in Long Meadow, Mass., for a visit of two weeks. Their daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Beechin, came for them.

Miss Della Lynn of Portland has been visiting Mrs. Ardelle Kimball.

Homer Brown spent the week end with Sidley Ridlon, in Kezar Falls, recently.

Mr. Cash has been visiting his sister, Mrs. Oliver Robbins.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Russell of Winchester Mass., spent the recent holidays with Mr. and Mrs. Irving Bell. Mrs. Russell spent last week with them.

Dorothy Decker is working in Wilson Morse's family.

Carroll Lewis and Clifford Adams are helping Harry Haynes pick his apples,. Mr. Haynes is having a large crop this year.

Mrs. Minnie Guillow of Troy, N. H., is visiting her brother, Frank Billings.

Earle Marr and family motored into the Mountains on Sunday, Oct. 14th.

Mrs. L. R. Muller is visiting in Auburn. Mrs. John Adams of West Stoneham is working in the Muller family.

Fred Haynes has a new Nash closed car.

Mrs. Carrie Kingman has recovered from her recent attack of the grippe and has gone for a visit with her sister, Mrs. Leslie Flint, in North Norway.

Mrs. Phoebe Hapgood left Oct. 13th. with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Parker of Cumberland Mills. Mrs. Hapgood is to visit her bother in Winn and Lincoln, later.

Mr. and Mrs. Ned T. Fox of Portland were in town recently and motored their aunt, Mrs. Ida B. Riggs and Mrs. Fox's mother, Mrs. Eliza Charles, of Harrison, to Bethel and Andover for a visit.

KEZAR FALLS

Local People Enjoyed Concert—"Dad's Day"—William Holmes Dead—Gentlemen's Evening—Deer Killed.

The United States Marine Band, otherwise known as the "President's Own" was the chief attraction in Portland the afternoon and evening of October 18th. Apart from their musical ability and military bearing, they were a fine looking body of men, with uniforms striking and becoming. Dr. and Mrs. E. G. Caston, Mrs. W. A. Garner and Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Norton were among the music lovers who had the pleasure of listening to the concert given by them in the evening.

Last Saturday was "Dad's Day" at the New Hampshire University, the one day that poor Dad can call his own and judging from the number present, he surely made the most of the occasion. The University and its surroundings is a place to be proud of, the faculty of the best, and the students—well, ask the Dads. Among those attending from this place were W. M. Chellis, who has a daughter there, Rev. A. A. Callaghan, W. T. Norton and John W. Garner.

William Holmes, aged about fifty-five years, passed away after a long illness on the evening of October the 18th. Services were held at his home on the afternoon of the following Saturday, by Rev. Howard Mitchell of Old Orchard. Two selections were sung by Mrs. Chauncey Cutting, "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere" and "My Saviour, First of All." Interment in Porter Village Cemetery, beside his wife who preceded him seven years ago.

In accordance with the program of the L. M. R. C., October fifteenth was Gentlemen's Evening, Mr. and Mrs. Olin Banks being the hospitable host and hostess, serving a delicious repast of cold meats, salads, pastries and coffee. The tables were very prettily decorated and the guests, numbering forty-nine, did their full duty by the tempting viands. No business was enacted for the hat trimming contest by the gentlemen promised to be the event of the evening. After due consultation and consideration, they got to work and wonderful were the creations evolved, Page Illsley winning over all competitors.

The Rev. Arthur Calaghan preached last Sunday from the text "Who is This?" He gave much food for thought both in the question and the answer. It was Club Sunday and some were in church by special invitation. There was also special music by the choir, including a solo by Mrs. Walter Carpenter, "Hear My Prayer, Oh Lord."

The Fish and Game Association met with an unusual occurrence lately. Some men who were coming to their work in the mill ran into a deer, the animal springing from the bank to its death, directly in front of the car, badly damaging the radiator. The deer was taken to the game warden with explanations. and the Fish and Game Association with their families, and the minister, an honored guest, in due season had the pleasure of dining on venison.
